This book reports the findings of a round table of senior Canadian government officials and private sector executives exploring fundamental changes in the economy, in culture and values and in the social contract that characterize the emergence of a global information society.

Prevention As Altering the Course of Development Jennifer L. Maggs, John E. Schulenberg, 2001-09-01 Prevention and developmental sciences have many complementary goals and much to gain by collaboration. With random assignment to conditions and long term multivariate follow up of individuals across significant years in the life span, fundamental basic and applied research questions can now be addressed using new statistical methods. This special issue includes four empirical papers that used growth modeling techniques: hierarchical linear modeling, latent growth curve analyses to examine direct and indirect effects of theory based longitudinal prevention experiments on developmental trajectories of children's and adolescents' substance use, delinquency and school bonding.

The Long View of Crime: A Synthesis of Longitudinal Research Akiva M. Liberman, 2007-11-30 Criminology is concerned with many questions which are inherently longitudinal. For example, what is the life course of criminal behavior? Is there one general offending pattern or multiple offending patterns over time? Which early risk factors, if any, are strongly predictive of criminal behavior? Can early intervention prevent the development of a criminal career? Longitudinal research allows examination of within person relationships over time and allows the examination of developmental sequences and timing. This volume examines longitudinal research in relation to crime and delinquency. The main body of Longitudinal Studies on Crime and Delinquency is seven reviews which were commissioned to answer two simultaneous questions: What have we learned from recent longitudinal research on crime and delinquency that we did not know before? and b) that capitalizes on the longitudinal nature of the data. Topics for review were chosen with an eye to three considerations: a) a critical mass of studies addresses the question; b) an emphasis on longitudinal methods; c) policy relevance of the question. Three additional chapters include an introduction and overview, an essay reflecting on the findings highlighted in the volume from the broad perspective of the evolutionary ecological theory of crime, and a Future Directions chapter The volume also includes an appendix which relates each of the reviews to the body of longitudinal studies reviewed in the volume This not only shows which studies have informed which topics but also highlights analytic opportunities that have not yet been explored and where this information could be applied in future research Successful Prevention Programs for Children and Adolescents Joseph A. Durlak, 1997-08-31 Successful Prevention Programs for Children and Adolescents presents a wide variety of exemplary programs addressing behavioral and social problems school failure drug use injuries child abuse health and other critical issues Because the validity and generality of these studies is of paramount importance Joseph A Durlak focuses this volume on programs that have been carefully conceptualized conducted and evaluated And because two decades of study indicate that interventions that attempt to change only attitudes and knowledge have not been successful Durlak emphasizes programs that have produced positive effects on behavior and adjustment

Drug Abuse: Prevention and Treatment Mangai Natarajan, 2017-05-15 Ever since the Shanghai convention in 1909 the threat posed to human well being by drug abuse has led countries around the world to take action to deal with their drug problems There are wide variations in the policies pursued but most countries try to reduce both the supply of and the demand for drugs Unfortunately there is little research consensus on the respective merits of these two approaches or about the best ways to pursue them Consequently control and prevention policies are mostly driven by political considerations economic realities and cultural expectations though research has played an important part in formulating and evaluating treatments for drug addiction This volume reviews studies on drug abuse prevention and treatment strategies under five main areas 1 Reducing supply strategies to control the flow of drugs from production to retail distribution 2 Reducing demand prevention of drug use at all stages of involvement and consumption levels 3 Reducing harm promoting situational risk reduction practices for regular users addicts and recreational users 4 Reducing addiction drug treatment options for various groups in various settings and 5 Drug policies and prescriptions focused on debates about prohibition and legalization Evidence-Based Crime
