Wright, 2016-03-09 This book considers a range of twentieth century novelists who practise a creative mode of reading the Bible exploring aspects of the Book of Genesis which more conventional biblical criticism sometimes ignores Each chapter considers some of the interpretive challenges of the relevant story in Genesis especially those noted by rabbinic midrash which serves as a model for such creative rewriting of the biblical text All the novelists considered from Mark Twain John Steinbeck and Thomas Mann to Jeanette Winterson Anita Diamant and Jenny Diski are shown to have been aware of the midrashic tradition and in some cases to have incorporated significant elements from it into their own writing The questions these modern and postmodern writers ask of the Bible however go beyond those permitted by the rabbis and by other believing interpretive communities Each chapter therefore attempts to chart intertextually where the writers are coming from what principles govern their mode of reading and rewriting Genesis and what conclusions can be drawn about the ways in which it remains possible to relate to the Bible      Ritual Violence and the Maternal in the British Novel, 1740-1820

Raymond F. Hilliard, 2010 This challenging book brings to light a mythic dimension of seventeen important eighteenth and early nineteenth century narratives that revolve around the persecution of one or more important female characters and offers original reading of novels by Richardson Fielding Burney Radcliffe Godwin Austen Scott and others The myth in question which Raymond Hilliard calls the myth of persecution and reparation serves as a major vehicle for the early novel's preoccupation with the mother a mythic figure distinct from the historical mother or from the mother as she is represented in eighteenth and early nineteenth century maternal ideology Hilliard argues that the myth of persecution and reparation derives from the topos of female sacrifice in the romance tradition and shows that this topos is central to several kinds of novels realist Gothic Jacobin feminist and historical Hilliard contends that the narrative of persecution and reparation anticipates the twentieth century maternal myth associated with the work of Melanie Klein and other relational model psychoanalytic theorists and he thus also examines the psychosexual significance of the mother Hilliard explores the relation of psychosexual themes to social representations and delineates a new theory of plot both tragic and comic plots in the early novel Book Jacket     Intende, Lector - Echoes of Myth, Religion and Ritual in the Ancient Novel Marília P. Aseneth's Transformation Kirsten Marie Hartvigsen, 2018-12-17 The story of Joseph and Aseneth is a fascinating expansion of the narrative in Genesis of Joseph in Egypt and in particular of his marriage to the daughter of an Egyptian priest This study examines the portrayal of Aseneth's transformation in the text focusing on three perspectives How did Aseneth's encounter with Joseph and her subsequent transformation affect various aspects of her identity in the narrative In what ways do the portrayals of Aseneth her transformation and her abode relate to select metaphors and other symbolic features depicted in the Septuagint the Hebrew Bible and the Pseudepigrapha And how do the ritualized components through which Aseneth's transformation occurred function in the narrative and why are they perceived as effective In order to shed light on these facets of Joseph and Aseneth the author draws on the contemporary approaches of intersectionality conceptual blending intertextual blending and the cognitive theory of rituals using these theoretical frameworks to explore and illuminate the complexity of Aseneth's transformation
