Planetary Passport Janet McIntyre-Mills, 2017-08-31 This book explores the implications of knowing our place in the universe and recognising our hybridity It is a series of self reflections and essays drawing on many diverse ways of knowing The book examines the complex ethical challenges of closing the wide gap in living standards between rich and poor people communities The notion of an ecological citizen is presented with a focus on protecting current and future generations The idea is to track the distribution and redistribution of resources in the interests of social and environmental justice The central argument looks for ways to hold the powerful to account so as to enable virtuous living by the majority to be demonstrated in what the author calls a planetary passport a careful use of resources and a way to provide safe passage to those in need of safe habitat The book argues that nation states need to find ways to control the super rich through the governance process and to enhance a sense of shared ecological citizenship and responsibility for biodiversity The fundamental approach is collaborative research Planetary Passport Representation Accountability and Re Generation is comprised of six chapters Chapter 1 begins by making a case for a paradigm shift away from business as usual and the pursuit of profit at the expense of the social and environmental fabric of life The aim is to explore alternatives and to discuss some ways of achieving wellbeing whilst the focus is on human rights discrimination and outlining the notion of a planetary passport Chapter 2 makes a specific link between people and the planet as a basis for understanding the nature of hybridity and interconnectedness and the implications for ethics Chapter 3 focuses on building this planetary passport for social and environmental justice in order to enable people with complex needs to consider the consequences of either continuing to live the same way as before or making changes to the way that they live

Meanwhile Chapter 4 does the same as the previous chapter but explores the political context of consumption and short term profit Chapter 5 examines the challenges and opportunities that come from explorations within a cross cultural learning community This includes a look at co creation and co determination Finally Chapter 6 ends with a look to the future and a potential new framework for people and the planet through a planetary passport

Unforgiving Places Jens Ludwig,2025-04-21 What if everything we understood about gun violence was wrong In 2007 economist Jens Ludwig moved to the South Side of Chicago to research two big questions Why does gun violence happen and is there anything we can do about it Almost two decades later the answers aren t what he expected Unforgiving Places is Ludwig s revelatory portrait of gun violence in America's most famously maligned city Disproving the popular narrative that shootings are the calculated acts of malicious or desperate people Ludwig shows how most shootings actually grow out of a more fleeting source interpersonal conflict especially arguments By examining why some arguments turn tragic while others don't Ludwig shows gun violence to be more circumstantial and more solvable than our traditional approaches lead us to believe Drawing on decades of research and Ludwig's immersive fieldwork in Chicago including countless hours spent in schools parks playgrounds housing developments courtrooms jails police stations police cars and lots and lots of McDonald's Unforgiving Places is a breakthrough work at the cutting edge of behavioral economics As Ludwig shows progress on gun violence doesn't require America to solve every other social problem first it only requires that we find ways to intervene in the places and the ten minute windows where human behaviors predictably go haywire Mergent Company Archives Manual ,2007
