Touring the Antebellum South with an English Opera Company Michael Burden, 2020-10-21 The diary of Anton Reiff Jr c 1830 1916 is one of only a handful of primary sources to offer a firsthand account of antebellum riverboat travel in the American South The Pyne and Harrison Opera Troupe a company run by English sisters Susan and Louisa Pyne and their business partner tenor William Harrison hired Reiff then freelancing in New York to serve as musical director and conductor for the company s American itinerary The grueling tour began in November 1855 in Boston and then proceeded to New York Philadelphia Baltimore Pittsburgh and Cincinnati where after a three week engagement the company boarded a paddle steamer bound for New Orleans It was at that point that Reiff started to keep his diary Diligently transcribed and annotated by Michael Burden Reiff s diary presents an extraordinarily rare view of life with a foreign opera company as it traveled the country by river and rail Surprisingly Reiff comments little on the Pyne Harrison performances themselves although he does visit the theaters in the river towns including New Orleans where he spends evenings both at the French Opera and at the Gaiety Instead Reiff focuses his attention on other passengers on the mechanics of the journey on the landscape and on events he encounters including the 1856 Mardi Gras and the unveiling of the statue of Andrew Jackson in New Orleans s Jackson Square Reiff is clearly captivated by the river towns and their residents including the enslaved whom he encountered whenever the boat tied up Running throughout the journal is a thread of anxiety for apart from the typical dangers of a river trip the winter of 1855 1856 was one of the coldest of the century and the steamer had difficulties with river ice Historians have used Reiff s journal as source material but until now the entire text which is archived in Louisiana State University s Special Collections in Hill Memorial Library has only been available in its original state As a primary source the published journal will have broad appeal to historians and other readers interested in antebellum riverboat travel highbrow entertainment and the people and places of the South Civil War America, 1850 To 1875 Richard F. Selcer,2014-05-14
