rooted in historic interpretations of the Bible Interweaving elements of history theology literary criticism and cultural theory the essays in this volume discuss the ways in which biblical understandings have shaped Western and particularly European and North American assumptions about the nature and meaning of the nation Part of the Green College Lecture Series this wide ranging collection moves from the earliest Pauline and Rabbinic exegesis through Christian imperial and missionary narratives of the late Roman medieval and early modern periods to the entangled identity politics of mainstream nineteenth and twentieth century North America Taken together the essays show that while theories of globalization postmodernism and postcolonialism have all offered critiques of identity politics and the nation state the global present remains heavily informed by biblical historical intuitions of nationhood
