coverage Kyoto Around Kyoto Nara Around Nara Rough Trip Through Yellowstone Emerson Hough, 2023-12-21 In the winter of 1894 the magazine Forest and Stream sent one of its most talented writers Emerson Hough to Yellowstone National Park to document the decline in bison. Under the tutelage of legendary guide Billy Hofer, Hough learned to ski on 12 foot long wooden slats. He witnessed the arrest of notorious poacher Ed Howell caught red handed skinning a bison and met pioneering photographer F Jay Haynes. Undertaking a tough 200 mile trip on skis, Hough, Haines and Hofer came up with the best census of the park's bison and elk that anyone had yet achieved. Hough wrote up the expedition in a series of 14 articles. His reporting motivated the United States Congress to pass the anti poaching Lacey Act and helped turn public opinion against a proposed railroad through the park. Moreover, Hough's articles are immensely entertaining. He remains one of the wittiest writers ever to describe the park and his series, edited and annotated by University of California writing professor Scott Herring, is as fun to read as it is historically significant. Includes nine Yellowstone National Park photos by F Jay Haynes.

River Rough, River Smooth Anthony Dalton, 2010-01-11 Manitoba's Hayes River runs over six hundred kilometers from near Norway House to Hudson Bay. On its rush to the sea, the Hayes races over forty five rapids and waterfalls as it drops down from the Precambrian Shield to the Hudson Bay Lowlands. This great waterway, the largest naturally flowing river in Manitoba, served as the highway for settlers bound for the Red River colony, ferrying their worldly goods in York boats and canoes struggling against the mighty currents. Traditionally used for transport and hunting by the indigenous Cree, the Hayes became a major fur trade route in the seventeenth to nineteenth centuries, being explored by such luminaries as Pierre Radisson 1682, Henry Kelsey 1690, David Thompson 1784, Sir John Franklin 1819 and J B Tyrrell 1892. This is the account of the author's invitational journey on the Hayes from Norway House to Oxford House by traditional York boat with a crew of First Nation Cree, and later from Oxford House to York Factory by canoe in the company of other intrepid canoeists, modern day voyageurs reliving the past.
