Statuary from Royal Buildings at Amarna Marsha Hill, Kristin Thompson, 2024-04-15 Over more than a century and a quarter of excavations the royal and administrative buildings in the city of Amarna have yielded the remains of many hundreds of statues that had been part of Akhenaten's visionary plan. But fragmentation and dispersal have up until now made the results almost invisible. Only a relatively small number of the original statues have been widely known even to experts. The present publication brings together all these traces of the city's past to reveal the abundance, beauty, variety and novelty of the statuary and to begin the process of reintegrating it in considerations of the temples and palaces of the city. The work is presented in two parts. The first volume presents extensive observations about the creation of the statuary comprising chapters dealing with the range of materials and the methods of working them, a detailed explication of the novel creation of composite statuary and an overview of the workshop buildings that have been identified so far at Amarna. In the second volume the excavated fragments themselves, most of them previously unpublished, are catalogued in a series of chapters devoted to individual royal buildings. The original statues are envisioned and analysed for their contexts, resulting in new information about these buildings, the intentions and concerns behind them and the evolution in those intentions.

Dahomey's Royal Architecture Lynne Ellsworth Larsen, 2023-06-23 Dahomey's Royal Architecture examines the West African kingdom of Dahomey located in present-day Republic of Benin. The book explores the Royal Palace of Dahomey's relationship to the religious, cultural and national identity of the pre-colonial Kingdom of Dahomey c. 1625-1892, colonial Dahomey 1892-1960 and post-colonial Benin 1960-present. The Royal Palace of Dahomey covers more than 108 acres and was surrounded by a wall over two miles long. When the French colonial army arrived in Abomey in 1892, the ruling king set fire to the palace to keep it from falling into enemy hands. Though much of the palace structure was subsequently left to ruin, a portion of it was restored from which the French ruled for a short period. In 1945, the colonial administration transformed part of the palace into a museum, and in 1985 the entire palace was added to UNESCO's World Heritage list. This book documents the palace's physical transformations in relation to its changing purposes and explores how the space maintained religious significance despite change. The palace's construction, destruction and restorations demonstrate how architecture can be manipulated and transformed according to the agendas of governments or according to the religious and cultural needs of a populace. The palace functions as a historic record by discussing aspects of documentation, revision, language and interpretation. Covering almost four centuries of Dahomey's history, this book will be of interest to researchers and students of African art and architecture, religious studies, West African history and post-colonial studies. New Kingdom
