Sea Battles In Closeup The Age Of Nelson Sea Battles In Closeup:

Sea Battles in Close-up, the Age of Nelson David Lyon, 1996 There are few more potent images of naval warfare than that of the dying Admiral Lord Nelson at the moment of his greatest triumph the defeat of the joint French and Spanish fleets at Trafalgar The triumph at Trafalgar was the culmination of an era of growing British pre eminence at sea and foreshadowed the increasing power and prestige bestowed on Britain during the 19th century through the domination of the seas by the Royal Navy Covering many of the most significant naval actions of the second half of the 18th century and the beginning of the 19th century Sea Battles in Close up The Age of Nelson is a fascinating account of the nature of naval warfare in the era of sail and the personalities involved Initially looking at the organisation and tactics of fighting at sea in the period the book then examines in detail a number of major engagements These include Quiberon Bay in 1759 The Nile in 1798 and Lissa in 1811 as well as Trafalgar itself Also covered is an examination of single ship actions and the attempts to defeat the Barbary Corsairs The book is fully illustrated with a superb selection of line drawings etchings and other contemporary pictures which graphically explore both the theory and practice of naval combat in the period

The Arts of Leadership Keith Grint,2000-04-13 Leadership is still much discussed studied and sought after even though we now live in supposedly more democratic times with flatter organizations and empowered employees But how can we best understand leadership Are leaders born or made Do they have particular traits or are we all potential leaders Do the requirements for leadership change over time or are there timeless patterns Do traditional approaches help us to pick and develop leaders or are there alternative ways that advance our understanding In this book Keith GrintDSwho has been studying and teaching leadership for over a decadeDSinvestigates the notion of leadership in a series of historical case studies and rich essay portraits of some of the most famous and infamous leaders e g Florence Nightingale Richard Branson Horatio Nelson Martin Luther King Henry Ford etc The scenarios are drawn from right across the spectrum to include business politics society and the military The first part of the book considers four sets of parallel cases where leadership appears to be a major explanation of success and failure The second part takes the four critical issues arising from these parallel cases identity strategic vision organizational tactics and persuasive communication and explores them in detail One main reason we have such difficulty in explaining and enhancing leadership Grint argues is because we often adopt perspectives and models that obscure rather than illuminate the issues involved The reliance upon traditional scientific analysis has not provided the anticipated advances in our understanding because leadership is more fruitfully considered as an art or more exactly an array of arts rather than as a science Grint s rich and meticulously researched profiles combine to reveal these Arts of Leadership
