The Lives, Loves, and Art of Arthur B. Davies Bennard B. Perlman, 1999-03-11 This is the first full length biography of the American artist Arthur B Davies who played a major role in twentieth century American art's coming of age It was Davies who made possible the landmark exhibitions of The Eight and The Rockwell Kent Independent and in 1913 he emerged as the mastermind behind the Armory Show the first large scale display of European modern art in the United States Dozens of the country's best known collectors purchased their initial avant garde acquisitions at this show and US artists in turn could no longer be kept in check by the conservative National Academy after viewing works by Duchamp Matisse Picasso and others Drawing on extensive archival research including previously unavailable letters and diaries this book covers the breadth and depth of the artist's life and career from his boyhood in Utica in the 1860s through his close association with such artists and collectors as Robert Henri, John Sloan, Alfred Stieglitz, Lizzie Bliss and Abby Aldrich Rockefeller to his death in Italy in 1928 in the company of his mistress with whom he had lived a secret double life as David A. Owen for more than twenty years. Included are 101 color and black and white illustrations of Davies's own work ranging from romantic dream visions to fragmented cubist forms as well as photographs depicting his family and friends. Davies, who worked in over twenty different media, was called one of the foremost artists in this country and one of the greatest artists of our time, and his work is represented in major collections throughout the United States. The illustrations alone, many of works in private collections and available here to the public for the first time as well as the appended chronology, exhibition checklist and list of addresses make this a valuable addition to the library of every art dealer, curator and student of American art. But equally fascinating is the story of the forces, personalities and relationships that helped shape the course of twentieth century American art.

Oil Pollution in the North Sea Angela Carpenter, 2015-11-27
This volume offers a review of measures taken at different levels to prevent oil inputs to the North Sea from sources such as shipping and oil installations. A range of data from satellites, remote sensing, aerial surveillance, in situ monitoring, oil spill sampling and beached bird surveys presents a comprehensive portrait of trends in oil pollution over many years. Topics include Bonn Agreement based actions to eliminate illegal and accidental pollution from ships, OSPAR monitoring of oil installations, EMSA CleanSeaNet activities and an internationally approved common standard for oil spills presented by the Bonn OSINet. A chapter on the role of the IMO in preventing oil pollution from ships provides an international context while others discuss efforts being made at the national level. A decadal review of the state of the North Sea prepared by OSPAR supports the view that there has been a significant reduction of oil inputs to the sea. This thorough review addresses national and international agencies and government bodies as well as policymakers and practitioners in the fields of shipping, ports and terminals, oil extraction and marine management. Further, it provides researchers with essential reference material on tools and techniques for monitoring oil pollution and offers a valuable resource for undergraduate and post graduate students in the field of marine oil pollution.
