Civilized Life in the Universe George Basalla,2006-01-19 This book is a selective and fascinating history of scientific speculation about intelligent extraterrestrial life From Plutarch to Stephen Hawking some of the most prominent western scientists have had quite detailed perceptions and misperceptions about alien civilizations Johannes Kepler fresh from transforming astronomy with his work on the shape of planetary orbits was quite sure alien engineers on the moon were excavating circular pits to provide shelter Christiaan Huygens the most prominent physical scientist between Galileo and Newton dismissed Kepler's speculations but used the laws of probability to prove that planetarians on other worlds are much like humans and had developed a sense of the visual arts Carl Sagan sees clearly that Huygens is a biological chauvinist but doesn't see as clearly that he Sagan may be a cultural technological chauvinist when he assumes aliens have highly developed technology like ours but better Basalla traces the influence of one speculation on the next showing an unbroken but twisting chain of ideas passed from one scientist to the next and from science to popular culture He even traces the influence of popular culture on science Sagan always admitted how much E R Burroughs Martian novels influenced his speculations about Mars Throughout Basalla weaves his theme that scientific belief in and search for extraterrestrial civilizations is a complex impulse part secularized religious and part anthropomorphic He questions the common modern scientific reasoning that life converges on intelligence and intelligence converges on one science valid everywhere He ends the book by agreeing with Stephen Hawking usually a safe bet that intelligence is overrated for survival in the universe and that we are most likely alone
