the Soho edition provides useful cross references to the 1983 edition and includes a selective index A Supplement makes as current as possible information relating to the publishing history of Shaw's works in English Also invaluable to scholarship but not often seen in publication is the series of investigatory reports eleven in all on the history and holdings of major Shaw research sources written by equally major Shaw scholars and spanning four nations England Ireland Canada and the United States Prominent among the articles is an extensive report by James Tyler on the Burgunder Collection at Cornell University Beyond these enticing collections is a listing of additional research sources at the end of the section Last but hardly least is the bibliography of Shaw's translations in ten major languages and an article on Shaw and his translators by Fred D Crawford completed by Dan H Laurence Culling the history of translations of Shaw's works in distant countries and in various languages the bibliography gathers hitherto unavailable publication data transliterated to English Preceding the bibliography is a fascinating article on the interactions intrigues and inconsistencies that surrounded Shaw's relations with his translators Given the multiple complex issues involved the article invites further research on Shaw's translations as much as it provides a basis for such scholarship Additionally Bernard Shaw's Further Letters to Siegfried Trebitsch edited by Samuel A Weiss provides evidence beyond Weiss's fine book length edition of the evolution of a relationship between Shaw and his German translator particularly in the face of World War II enmities between their respective countries and Trebitsch's continued if at times ill managed efforts to put Shaw on the German stage and in the German heart In Shaw's A Devil of a Fellow Self Criticism originally published in a German translation by Trebitsch but published in this volume for the first time in its original English text we hear Shaw troubling the Viennese about his introduction as a dramatic poet to the German speaking peoples Shaw explains easily I never resist a man who is in earnest The man was Siegfried Trebitsch Also included are corrections and additions to the Collected Letters 1926-1950 by Dan H Laurence a review of Leon Hugo's Edwardian Shaw and John R Pfeiffer's Continuing Checklist of Shaviana 1992, Shaw and the Last Hundred Years Bernard Frank Dukore, 1994 In 1892 the first production of Bernard Shaw's first play Widowers Houses heralded the birth of modern drama in the English language One hundred years later a group of Shavians gathered to examine the significance and influence of Shaw's drama in the English speaking world The conference sponsored by Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University brought together theater scholars critics and artists from Canada England Ireland and the United States The conference also featured productions of The Shewing up of Blanco Posnet The Man of Destiny and Farfetched Tales each followed by a symposium The centennial conference not only marked the importance of the event but also stimulated new ways of regarding that historic moment reexaminations of the significance of Shaw's plays and explorations of their consequences Some speakers reevaluated the genesis of the first production of Widowers Houses and its social cultural and theatrical context Some brought to bear on the subject of Shavian drama recent critical perspectives such as feminism deconstructionism and the type of close textual and intertextual scrutiny seldom accorded Shaw Others explored his impact in England America Ireland and the Antipodes Still others examined the relationship of comedy and ideas subtext and how this Victorian dramatist remains pertinent today The conference concluded with a symposium that aimed to assess what might lie ahead for Shaw on page and stage in the next hundred years This volume records the proceedings of the conference as well as reviews and the continuing checklist of Shaviana Contributors are Peter Barnes Charles A Berst Montgomery Davis Bernard F Dukore Martin Esslin Joanne E Gates Nicholas Grene Christopher Innes Katherine E Kelly Frederick P W McDowell Rhoda Nathan Christopher Newton Michael O Hara Jean Reynolds Irving Wardle Stanley Weintraub and J L Wisenthal
