Lovesick Alibi Theresa Dooley, The New American Servitude Cati Coe, 2019-04-02 Finalist 2020 Elliott P Skinner Award given by the Association of Africanist Anthropology Examines why African care workers feel politically excluded from the United States Care for America s growing elderly population is increasingly provided by migrants and the demand for health care labor is only expected to grow Because of this health care crunch and the low barriers to entry new African immigrants have adopted elder care as a niche employment sector funneling their friends and relatives into this occupation However elder care puts care workers into racialized gendered and age hierarchies making it difficult for them to achieve social and economic mobility In The New American Servitude Coe demonstrates how these workers often struggle to find a sense of political and social belonging They are regularly subjected to racial insults and demonstrations of power and effectively turned into servants at the hands of other members of the care worker network including clients and their relatives agency staff and even other care workers Low pay a lack of benefits and a lack of stable employment combined with a lack of appreciation for their efforts often alienate them so that many come to believe that they cannot lead valuable lives in the United States While jobs are a means of acculturating new immigrants African care workers don t tend to become involved or politically active Many plan to leave rather than putting down roots in the US Offering revealing insights into the dark side of a burgeoning economy The New American Servitude carries serious implications for the future of labor and justice in the care work industry The Tender Years John Cortes, 2015-12-07 The Tender Years is the story of Carl and Ardensa who in the final days of their lives find themselves alone facing illness and the certainty of an approaching death The magnitude of their ordeal though as cruel as it may seem is overshadowed by the strength and trueness of their love for each other a love that refuses to yield to the painful demands of old age and the somber reality of impending death It is at this time in their lives that the strength of their love is magnified by the tender affection that they have for each other a tenderness imbedded in the depths of their hearts as they come to the end of their lives but not to the end of their love It is the kind of true love that leaps into the eternal realm sure of itself refusing to die even within the bosom of death itself

On Being One's Self Sharon Numa, 2022-09-05 On Being One's Self emerges from discussions in John Steiner's Workshop and investigates the meanings of self and identity including the many ways in which the development of personal identity can be subverted interrogating what can facilitate the development of a reasonably stable identity The variety of problems that can arise in relation to the development of a unique identity is reflected in rich clinical material that vividly illustrates identities felt to be weak unformed fluid or brittle in many cases demonstrating how the sense of self is held together by pathological defences and organisations The book examines several long term adult analytic cases suggesting that a mature personal identity involves not only knowing who one is but also the capacity for empathic identification with the experience of others as separate human beings The question of having an identity or the fear of losing it is a central concern of individuals and this volume which will be of interest to psychoanalysts and psychotherapists alike considers these issues by looking at the deepest conflicts around self and identity as they emerge and are relived in the transference relationship Silken Gazelles

Jokha Alharthi, 2024-08-13 In Alharthi's world it's not only the future that holds promise the past has possibility and opportunities for revision too The New York Times Book Review From Man Booker International Prize winning author of Celestial Bodies and Bitter Orange Tree a new novel about two Omani women whose unbreakable connection is forged as nursing sisters a bond considered akin to that of a birth sibling Raised as sisters Ghazaala is devastated when her friend Asiya is forced to leave their small mountainside village following a tragic circumstance It s a separation that haunts her into adulthood and she never gives up on finding a love that might replace the bond they shared Years later Ghazaala s family moves to Muscat where she falls in love with a professional violinist who lives in their building She completely surrenders herself to his charm and despite her parents opposition runs away from home to marry him While balancing the duties of a new wife caring for her husband their home and before long their twin boys Ghazaala resumes her education and enrolls in university Ghazaala s sharp wit catches the attention of another student Harir during their freshman year In the pages of her diary Harir recounts the story of her deepening transformative friendship with Ghazaala over the course of ten years The elusive ghostly existence of Asiya exerts a force over both their lives yet neither Ghazaala nor Harir is aware of the connection From the brilliant mind of Jokha Alharthi comes a tale of childhood friendship and how its significance and loss can be recalibrated at different stages of life
