Long-Distance Nationalism Zlatko Skrbiš, 2017-05-16 How strong and how significant is the interaction between migrants and homelands in the late 20th century Have the processes of globalization and transnational interaction produced new forms of nationalism or at least altered the old ones By using Croatians and Slovenians in Australia as examples this book examines the extent to which migrants are influenced by historical and contemporary processes of migration mediated through political and cultural symbolism What are the factors which influence the existence nature and intensity of ethno nationalism in the migrant context The study analyses both the existence and transmission of ethno nationalism between migrant settings and homelands and specifically deals with the transmission of ethno nationalism sentiments across migrant generations To understand the effects and consequences of long distance nationalism fully the book proceeds from an analysis of nationalism's public manifestations to an analysis of the relatively private domain of diasporic ethno communal existence

Transnationalism, Diaspora and Migrants from the former Yugoslavia in Britain Gayle Munro, 2016-09-13 The geographical area of what once constituted Yugoslavia has been a region of significant migration since the 1960s More recently the conflicts in the region were the catalysts for massive displacements of individuals families and whole communities Thus far there has been a gap in the literature on the qualitative experience of migrants from the former Yugoslavia through the twin theoretical lenses of transnationalism and diaspora This book offers an ethnographic account of migration and life in diaspora of migrants originating from the former Yugoslavia and now living in Britain Concepts such as the development of cultural beacons and diasporic borrowing are introduced through the ways in which migrants from the region form community associations and articulate or avoid such affiliations The study examines the ways in which the experience of migration can be shaped by the socio political contexts of departure and arrival and considers how the lexicon associated with the act of migration can weave itself into the identities of migrants The ways in which the transnational and diasporic spaces are dictated by certain narratives for example the allegory of dreaming and the language of guilt are explored It also investigates migrants ongoing connection with the homeland considering social and cultural elements their reception in UK and British media representations of Yugoslavia Contributing to the knowledge on the experiences of migrants from a part of the world which has been under researched in terms of its migrating populations this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Political Geography Social Geography Eastern European Politics and Migration and Diaspora studies

Diaspora, Politics, and Globalization M. Laguerre, 2006-08-01

Laguerre proposes a relationship among migrants and their home society that transcends current views in migration studies. The relationship among Haitians who live outside Haiti reflects a web rather than a radial relationship with the home country. Haitian migrants communicate among themselves and the home country simultaneously. In viewing the Haitian diaspora from a global perspective, the author reveals a new theory of interconnectedness in migration which marks a significant move away from transnationalism.
