Process Work in Person-Centred Therapy Richard Worsley, 2009-09-16. This unique and important book breaks new ground in the theory and practice of person centred psychotherapy by focusing on the issue of process. Process belongs to both client and counsellor. Worsley conceptualises process in relation to the core principles of the person centred approach but also to the humanistic and phenomenological roots of person centred therapy. Combining academic rigour with the wisdom of an experienced clinical practitioner, he opens up a more inclusive and integrative way of being with clients that nonetheless chimes with classical person centred principles. The book features Activities and vivid case studies to illustrate and expand on the theoretical points being developed, allowing the reader to see easily how these might apply to practice. Engagement with theoretical approaches such as transactional analysis and Gestalt as well as discussion of philosophy, spirituality and psychopathology. New discussion of the processes involved in mental illness drawing on the work of Prouty and Warner to understand the client's world of experiencing. New material on the plural self and configurations of the self.

The Palgrave Handbook of Masculinity and Sport Rory Magrath, Jamie Cleland, Eric Anderson, 2019-09-04. Over the past two decades there has been a rapid transformation of masculinities in the West, largely facilitated by a decline in cultural homophobia. The significant changes in the expression of masculinity, particularly among younger generations of men, have been particularly evident in men's team sports which have become an increasingly diverse and inclusive culture. Drawing upon work from a wide range of established and emerging international scholars, this handbook provides a comprehensive and interdisciplinary analysis of the contemporary relationship between masculinity and sport. It covers a range of areas including history, media, gender, sexuality, race, violence and fandom, considering how they impact a range of different sports across the world. Students and scholars across many disciplines will find the unparalleled overview provided by these specially commissioned chapters an invaluable resource.

Rehabilitation Counselling in Physical and Mental Health Kim Etherington, 2002. Individuals experiencing rehabilitation are subject to profound life adjustments and the contributors to this book explore how the relationship between counsellor and client can be a source of
