

Executive Reports for Major Projects

Objective:

Develop standard templates and reports for executive reporting for Major Project Stakeholders. Additionally, each report should have a description of its intended use, frequency and audience. This document is a guide to fulfill the communication needs of any major project and will be revised and updated as communication needs are identified. A few of the benefits for utilizing these standard reporting formats include:

- Consistency – many times the same person may sit on different Executive Committees. Viewing the same report formats for each different committee makes disseminating information easier and more efficient.
- Efficient Identification of Critical Issues - color coding status and risk assists in promptly identifying vital issues.
- Simplification - committee members become familiar with standard formats resulting in more productive use of time.

Definition:

Our definition of a major project is “a project that crosses organizational boundaries or significantly changes the way business is conducted in an organization”. While the majority of major projects involve the implementation of new technology, there is also involvement with projects where current business processes are being reengineered or optimized in preparation for new technology.

Summary:

The standard reports for any major project are identified in this document. These reports include topics that will be accompanied by appropriate documentation. The Appendices contain the report templates, instructions and samples.

Information from these reports will eventually lead to a comprehensive post implementation review and/or an Executive Stakeholder/Business Owner Summary Report.

The Norris Project. A Comprehensive Report on the Planning, Design, Construction and Initial Operations of the Tennessee Valley Authority's First Water Control Project. Technical Report N° 1 ,1940      TVA

Archaeology Erin E. Pritchard, 2009 Since its inception in 1933 the Tennessee Valley Authority has played a dual role as federal agency and steward of the Tennessee River Valley While known to most people today as an energy provider the agency is also charged with managing and protecting the nation s fifth largest river system the Tennessee River and vast tracts of land and resources encompassing Tennessee and portions of Alabama Georgia Kentucky Mississippi North Carolina and Virginia Included in TVA s mandate is the preservation of the archaeological record of the valley s prehistoric peoples a record that would have been forever lost beneath floodwaters had TVA not demonstrated a commitment to minimize its impact on the valley and sought to protect its archaeological resources In TVA Archaeology fourteen contributors who have worked with TVA in its conservation effort discuss prehistoric excavations conducted at Tellico Normandy Jonathan s Creek and many other sites They explore TVA s role in the excavations and how the agency facilitated prehistoric investigations along proposed dam sites They also delve into the history of TVA as it grew from a New Deal program to a federal corporation and reveal how during the agency s formative years the TVA board responded to prodding from archaeologists David DeJarnette and William Webb and molded TVA into the steward of a region it is today TVA remains a mainstay of progress and conservation within an important region of the United States and its safeguarding of the valley s prehistory cements its legacy as more than just an energy supplier Students and researchers interested in prehistoric archaeology the Tennessee Valley and the history of TVA will find this volume an invaluable contribution to the study of the region Erin E Pritchard is an archaeologist with the Tennessee Valley Authority Her work includes multiple archaeological site investigations most notably Dust Cave in northern Alabama and she has authored and coauthored numerous site reports for TVA      Tennessee Valley Authority in Vintage Postcards Mark Allen Stevenson, 2005-08-24 Created by the federal government in 1933 to revitalize a region twice the size of New England the Tennessee Valley Authority began as an experiment of unprecedented proportions Seen here through picture postcards the dramatic achievements of the TVA take on a personal aspect as individuals visit the hydroelectric projects and enjoy the newly created recreational opportunities Tangible benefits are also documented such as improved navigation new roads and bridges and abundant and inexpensive electricity Influenced by such visionaries as Gifford Pinchot Theodore Roosevelt and George Norris the agency also dealt with regional issues including river commerce soil conservation and flood control
