Political Prayer in Nineteenth-Century American Literature Amy Dunham Strand, 2024-09-30. Political Prayer in Nineteenth-Century American Literature explores how American women writers such as Catharine Maria Sedgwick, Harriet Beecher Stowe, Rebecca Harding Davis, and Emily Dickinson translated petitioning, a political form for redress of grievances with religious resonance, or what Strand calls political prayer, in their literary works. At a time when petitioning was historically transforming governments, mobilizing masses, and democratizing North America, these White women writers wrote literary petitions to advocate for others in social justice causes such as antiremoval, antislavery, and labor reform, to transform American literature and culture, and to articulate an ambivalent political agency. Political Prayer in Nineteenth-Century American Literature introduces historic petitioning into literary study as an overlooked but important new lens for reading nineteenth-century fiction and poetry. Understanding petitions in these literary works and these literary works as petitions also helps us to understand women's political agency before their enfranchisement, to explain why scholars have long debated and inconsistently interpreted the works of well anthologized women writers, and to see more clearly the multidimensional coexisting and often competing religious and political aspects of their writings.

Publisher's description: Prayer in Islamic Thought and Practice Marion Holmes Katz, 2013-04-29. The five daily prayers, Salat, that constitute the second pillar of Islam deeply pervade the everyday life of observant Muslims. Until now, however, no general study has analyzed the rules governing Salat, the historical dimensions of its practice, and the rich variety of ways that it has been interpreted within the Islamic tradition. Marion Holmes Katz's richly textured book offers a broad historical survey of the rules, values, and interpretations relating to Salat. This innovative study on the subject examines the different ways in which prayer has been understood in Islamic law, Sufi mysticism, and Islamic philosophy. Katz's book also goes beyond the spiritual realm to analyze the political dimensions of prayer, including scholars' concerns about the righteousness and piety of rulers. The last chapter raises significant issues around gender roles, including the question of women's participating in and leading public worship. This book will resonate with students of Islamic history and comparative religion.

The Human John Lechte, 2018-06-14 Why is it important to consider the human today Exploring this question John Lechte takes inspiration from the interplay of two of Giorgio Agamben s concepts ways of life and bare life Stateless people those who do not have a political community such as asylum seekers and refugees are no less human However the European tradition represented most clearly in Hannah Arendt s thinking of the opposition between the oikos as the satisfaction of basic needs and the polis as the realm of freedom and glory proposes the opposite of this Arendt s famous phrase the right to have rights means that freedom and full human potential can only be realised in the context of civil society in short that only citizens can be fully human Because Arendt s view is so influential yet often not acknowledged it is necessary to undertake a full investigation of the nature and meaning of the human to establish that it is not reducible to the citizen but is always characterised by a way of life life mediated by language The human is never reducible to bare life a life with no other significance than physical survival The implications of bare life are investigated through important themes in relation to the human such as freedom and necessity the animal animality as nature inclusion and exclusion in politics the sacred death and dying technics and nature the Same and the Other the everyday as extraordinary Journeying through Agamben Arendt Bataille Derrida Hegel Heidegger Husserl Levinas Schelling Simondon and Stiegler this is a profound search to reveal the truly human

Of Prayers and Tears Saitya Brata Das,2023-10-13 Eschatology is generally understood to be the doctrine of last things but understood rigorously eschatology actually speaks of the inauguration of a new redeemed world to come and of the coming of God himself To speak of eschatology in this way is to speak of the very possibility of the future in the radical sense the future that is not a mere attenuated variation of presence Eschatology speaks of a coming that comes only to pass away into a past rather it speaks of the coming of the Holy itself which is the very origin of time and is thus the event par excellence This book attempts to make manifest the question that eschatology itself poses that eschaton has something essential to do with the beginning This work intervenes in contemporary debates on postsecularism and the return to religion By introducing the question of eschatology anew this book reintroduces the problem of transcendence that effectively calls into question the logic of sovereign power and rethinks the place of religion as an affirmation of what lies beyond which does not function as the legitimizing principle of sovereignty in today s world of mass consumption
