Parsons presents research based on an extensive 1967 survey of the Texcoco Region in the Valley of Mexico. The sites are organized by time period from Middle Formative to Aztec. Parsons describes the sites in detail and compares them to those of the same time periods in the Teotihuacan Valley and the Valley of Mexico in general.

Hastings, Ramiro Matos M., 2000-01-01 An archaeological study of ancient settlement patterns in Peru's rugged and diverse central highlands. The Comparative Archaeology of Complex Societies Michael E. Smith, 2011-09-05 Part of a resurgence in the comparative study of ancient societies, this book presents a variety of methods and approaches to comparative analysis through the examination of wide-ranging case studies. Each chapter is a comparative study, and the diverse topics and regions covered in the book contribute to the growing understanding of variation and change in ancient complex societies. The authors explore themes ranging from urbanization and settlement patterns to the political strategies of kings and chiefs to the economic choices of individuals and households. The case studies cover an array of geographical settings from the Andes to Southeast Asia. The authors are leading archaeologists whose research on early empires, states, and chiefdoms is at the cutting edge of scientific archaeology.

Settlement Ecology of the Ancient Americas Lucas C. Kellett, Eric Jones, 2016-10-04 In this exciting new volume, several leading researchers use settlement ecology, an emerging approach to the study of archaeological settlements, to examine the spatial arrangement of prehistoric settlement patterns across the Americas. Positioned at the intersection of geography, human ecology, anthropology, economics, and archaeology, this diverse collection showcases successful applications of the settlement ecology approach in archaeological studies and also discusses associated techniques such as GIS, remote sensing, and statistical and modeling applications. Using these methodological advancements, the contributors investigate the specific social, cultural, and environmental factors which mediated the placement and arrangement of different sites. Of particular relevance to scholars of landscape and settlement archaeology, Settlement Ecology of the Ancient Americas provides fresh insights not only into past societies but also present and future populations in a rapidly changing world Archeology and Volcanism in Central America Payson D. Sheets, 2014-07-03 Scientists have long speculated on the impact of extreme natural catastrophes on human societies Archeology and Volcanism in Central America provides dramatic evidence of the effects of several volcanic disasters on a major civilization of the Western Hemisphere that of the Maya During the past 2 000 years four volcanic eruptions have taken place in the Zapotitan Valley of southern El Salvador One the devastating eruption of Ilopango around A D 300 forced a major migration pushing the Mayan people north to the Yucat n Peninsula Although later eruptions did not have long range implications for cultural change one of the subsequent eruptions preserved the Cer n site a Mesoamerican Pompeii where the bodies of the villagers the palm thatched roofs of their houses the pots of food in their pantries even the corn plants in their fields were preserved with remarkable fidelity Throughout 1978 a multidisciplinary team of anthropologists archeologists geologists biologists and others sponsored by the University of Colorado s Protoclassic Project researched and excavated the results of volcanism in the Zapotitan Valley a key Mesoamerican site that contemporary political strife has since rendered inaccessible The result is an outstanding contribution to our understanding of the impact of volcanic eruptions on early Mayan civilization These investigations clearly demonstrate that the Maya inhabited this volcanically hazardous valley in order to reap the short term benefits that the volcanic ash produced fertile soil fine clays and obsidian deposits The Legacies of The Basin of Mexico Carlos E. Cordova, Christopher T. Morehart, 2023-08-14 This volume celebrates the continuing impact of the most notable contributions from The Basin of Mexico The Ecological Processes in the Evolution of a Civilization by William T Sanders Jeffrey R Parsons and Robert S Santley In 1979 this influential work synthesized the results of the Basin of Mexico survey projects and follow up excavations at several sites while providing theoretical and methodological lines of research in central Mexico and generally in Mesoamerica More than four decades after that book s publication the fourteen contributions in this volume review and analyze its theoretical and methodological influence in light of recent research across disciplines Among a spectrum of authors representing several generations are those who participated directly in the Basin of Mexico surveys including the late Jeffrey R Parsons as well as those who have been actively working on recent projects in the basin and neighboring regions Providing a broad and multidisciplinary perspective of the present and future state of research in the area The Legacies of The Basin of Mexico will be of interest to Mesoamerican and Latin American archaeologists as well as geographers geologists historians and specialists in the study of past environments Contributors Guillermo Acosta Ochoa Aleksander Borejsza Destiny Crider Charles Frederick Ral Garc a Ch vez Larry Gorenflo Angela Huster Georgina Ibarra Arzave Charles Kolb Frank Lehmkuhl Abigail Meza Pe aloza Emily McClung de Tapia John K Millhauser Deborah Nichols Jeffrey R Parsons Serafin S nchez P rez Philipp Schulte Sergey Sedov Elizabeth Solleiro Rebolledo Daisy Valera Fen ndez Federico Zertuche The Mesoamerican Ballgame Vernon L. Scarborough, David R. Wilcox, 1993-01-01 The Precolumbian ballgame played on a masonry court has long intrigued scholars because of the magnificence of its archaeological remains. From its lowland Maya origins it spread throughout the Aztec empire where the game was so popular that sixteen thousand rubber balls were imported annually into Tenochtitlan. It endured for two thousand years spreading as far as to what is now southern Arizona. This new collection of essays brings together research from field archaeology, mythology and Maya hieroglyphic studies to illuminate this important yet puzzling aspect of Native American culture. The authors demonstrate that the game was more than a spectator sport serving social, political, mythological and cosmological functions; it celebrated both fertility and the afterlife, war and peace and became an evolving institution functioning in part to resolve conflict within and between groups. The contributors provide complete coverage of the archaeological, sociopolitical, iconographic and ideological aspects of the game and offer new information on the distribution of ballcourts, new interpretations of mural art and newly perceived relations of the game with material in the Popol Vuh. With its scholarly attention to a subject that will fascinate even general readers, The Mesoamerican Ballgame is a major contribution to the study of the mental life and outlook of New World peoples. Advances in Archaeological Method and Theory Michael B. Schiffer, 2014-06-30

Advances in Archaeological Method and Theory Volume 1 presents the progressive explorations in methods and theory in archaeology. This book discusses the strategy for appraising significance which is needed to maximize the preservation and wise use of cultural resources. Organized into 10 chapters, this volume begins with an overview of planning for the best long term use of cultural resources which is the essence of conservation archaeology. This text then examines importance of the concept in cultural ecological studies. Other chapters consider the methods used in determining the density, size and growth rate of human populations. This book discusses as well the use of demographic variables in archaeological explanation. The final chapter deals with the decisions that must be made in designing a survey and to identify the alternative consequences for data recovery of various strategies. This book is a valuable resource for archaeologists and planners. Archaeology of Mesoamerica Claudia García-Des Lauriers,Tatsuya Murakami,2022-02-14 The Early Classic period in Mesoamerica has been characterized by the appearance of Teotihuacan related material culture throughout the region Teotihuacan known for its monumental architecture and dense settlement became an urban center around 100 BC and a regional state over the next few centuries dominating much of the Basin of Mexico and beyond until its collapse around AD 650 Teotihuacan and Early Classic Mesoamerica explores the complex nature of Teotihuacan s interactions with other regions from both central and peripheral vantage points The volume offers a multiscalar view of power and identity showing that the spread of Teotihuacan related material culture may have resulted from direct and indirect state administration colonization emulation by local groups economic transactions single event elite interactions and various kinds of social and political alliances The contributors explore questions concerning who interacted with whom what kinds of materials and ideas were exchanged what role interregional interactions played in the creation transformation and contestation of power and identity within the city and among local polities and how interactions on different scales were articulated The answers to these questions reveal an Early Classic Mesoamerican world engaged in complex economic exchanges multidirectional movements of goods and ideas and a range of material patterns that require local regional and macroregional contextualization Focusing on the intersecting themes of identity and power Teotihuacan and Early Classic Mesoamerica makes a strong contribution to the understanding of the role of this important metropolis in the Early Classic history of the region The volume will be of interest to scholars and graduate students of Mesoamerican archaeology the archaeology of interaction and the archaeology of identity Contributors Sarah C Clayton Fiorella Fenoglio Lim n Agapi Filini Julie Gazzola Sergio G mez Ch vez Haley Holt Mehta Carmen P rez Patricia Plunket Juan Carlos Saint Charles Zetina Yoko Sugiura Gabriela Uru uela Gustavo Jaimes Vences Early State Formation in Central Madagascar Henry T.
