Prehistoric Thailand:

Prehistoric Thailand Charles Higham, Rachanie Thosarat, 1998      Ban Chiang, a Prehistoric Village Site in Northeast Thailand, Volume 1 Michael Pietrusewsky, Michele Toomay Douglas, 2002 The inaugural volume in the Thai Archaeology Monograph Series describes in detail the human skeletal remains from Ban Chiang in northeast Thailand. The skeletal material spans a period from 2100 B.C. to A.D. 200 and includes premetal Bronze Age and Iron Age deposits from a series of prehistoric societies. The history of Homo sapiens in Asia has long been a topic of interest among scholars investigating human biology. This study, which is based on one of the larger comprehensively analyzed skeletal series ever excavated in the region, makes fundamental contributions to understanding human settlement in eastern Asia. The volume includes detailed summaries of metric and nonmetric variation recorded in teeth, skulls, and the rest of the skeleton and evidence of disease of the Ban Chiang people. These data are used to examine a number of questions: Where did the people of Ban Chiang come from? Did more intensified agriculture influence the health of the people? How do the people of Ban Chiang compare to the inhabitants of other ancient sites in Thailand and to the modern peoples of Thailand and neighboring regions? Contrary to other groups experiencing similar transitions elsewhere in the world, no clear evidence for a decline in health over time is noted in the Ban Chiang skeletal series, suggesting continuity in a broad-based subsistence strategy even in the face of intensifying agriculture. The skeletal evidence further suggests a rigorous physical lifestyle with little evidence for infectious disease or interpersonal violence. White,Elizabeth G. Hamilton,2018-09-17 The emergence and adoption of metallurgy is one of the seminal topics of investigation in the history of archaeology particularly in the history of archaeological research in Southeast Asia The site of Ban Chiang Thailand is a central site in debates surrounding the chronology and significance of early metallurgy in the region This book is the first in a series of four volumes that review the contributions of Ban Chiang and three related sites in northeast Thailand excavated by the Penn Museum to an understanding early metallurgy in Thailand As the study of archaeometallurgy is a complex topic that draws on numerous technical and social science disciplines this introductory volume presents in several chapters the background needed to assess the metal and related evidence presented in the subsequent volumes in this series A history of perspectives on the role of metals in ancient societies generally and Southeast Asia specifically is provided Other chapters debunk the conventional paradigm for understanding metals and society and provide current theoretical perspectives and new paradigms for the study of ancient metals The geological basis for the presence and location of metal ore resources in the region is reviewed The final chapter presents a technical overview of ways material properties of ancient metals may be studied While providing a background to the study of metals at Ban Chiang the volume also reviews synthesizes and repositions the method and theory for the study of archaeometallurgy generally Thai Archaeology Monograph Series 2A University Museum Monograph 149 The Science and Archaeology of Materials Julian Henderson, 2013-04-15 The Science and Archaeology of Materials is set to become the definitive work in the archaeology of materials Henderson's highly illustrated work is an accessible and fascinating textbook which will be essential reading for all practical archaeologists With clear sections on a wide range of materials including ceramics glass metals and stone this work examines the very foundations of archaeological study Anyone interested in ancient technologies especially those involving high temperatures kilns and furnaces will be able to follow in each chapter how raw materials are refined transformed and shaped into objects This description is then followed by appropriate case studies which provide a new chronological and geographical example of how scientific and archaeological aspects can and do interact They include Roman pale green and highly decorated glass 17th Century glass in Britain and Europe the effect of the introduction of the wheel on pottery technology the technology of Celadon ceramics early copper metallurgy in the Middle East chemical analysis and lead isotope analysis of British Bronzes early copper alloy metallurgy in Thailand the chemical analysis of obsidian and its distribution the origins of the Stonehenge bluestones This book shows how archaeology and science intersect and feed off each other Modern scientific techniques have provided data which when set within a fully integrated archaeological context have the potential of contributing to mainstream archaeology This holistic approach generates a range of connections which benefits both areas and will enrich archaeological study in the future International Dictionary of Historic Places: Asia and Oceania Trudy Ring, Robert M. Salkin, Sharon La Boda, 1994 First Published in 1996 Routledge is an imprint of Taylor Francis an informal company Asia and Oceania Trudy Ring, Noelle Watson, Paul Schellinger, 2012-11-12 From the Taj Mahal to the Parthenon from Gettysburg to Heidelberg from Beacon Hill to Tower Hill from the Great Wall to Hadrian's Wall from Jerusalem to Kyoto the International Dictionary of Historic Places presents some 1 000 comprehensive and fully illustrated histories of the most famous sites in the world Entries include location description and site office details and a 3 000 to 4 000 word essay that provides a full history of the site and the condition of the site today An annotated Further Reading list of books and articles about the site completes each entry Ban Chiang, Northeast Thailand, Volume 2C Joyce C. White, Elizabeth G. Hamilton, 2019-12-06 This third volume in the series is devoted to presenting and interpreting the metallurgical evidence from Ban Chiang northeast Thailand in the broader regional context Because the production of metal artifacts must engage numerous communities in order to acquire and process the raw materials and then create and distribute products understanding metals in past societies requires a regional perspective This is the first book to compile summarize and synthesize the English language copper production and exchange evidence available so far from Thailand and Laos in a thorough and systematic manner Chapters by Vincent C Pigott and Thomas O Pryce examine in detail the mining and smelting of copper in several sites and the lead isotope evidence for the sourcing of artifacts found in two of the consumption sites included in the study Another chapter compiles the metal consumption evidence including results of technical studies on prehistoric metals recovered from more than 35 sites excavated in central and northeast Thailand This compilation demonstrates important regional variation in chaînes opératoires allowing explication and synthesis of the technological traditions found in this region during prehistory The review and compilation sheds new light on the social and economic context for the adoption and development of metallurgy in this part of the world One key insight is that Thailand presents a case for a community driven bronze age where the choices of peaceful local communities not elites or centralized political entities shaped how metal technological systems were implemented in this region This fresh perspective on the role of metallurgy in ancient societies contributes to an expanded global understanding of how humans have engaged metal technologies contributing to debunking the conventional paradigm that emphasized a top down view and a standardized metallurgical sequence a paradigm that has dominated archeometallurgical studies for the last century or more Thai Archaeology Monograph Series 2C University Museum Monograph 153

The Oxford Handbook of Early Southeast Asia C.F.W. Higham, Nam C.
