This book is the second volume of a much larger project Ancient Pakistan An Archaeological History which deals with the prehistory of Pakistan from the Stone Age to the end of the Indus Civilization ca 1500 BC This particular volume A Prelude to Civilization is concerned with the beginning of agriculture sedentary living and the emergence of village farming communities in the Greater Indus Valley leaving the reader at the threshold of the Harappan Civilization The material is generously illustrated with a large number of maps tables drawings and photographs A comprehensive bibliography is provided for those who want to dig deeper into the subject The Kurds and Kurdistan Lokman I. Meho,1997-06-25 As the Kurdish question becomes more prominent in Middle Eastern politics it is attracting attention from the media the academic community and governmental and non governmental organizations Swamped with questions from the press and academic departments students of Kurdish topics have needed a comprehensive bibliography on the Kurds This book meets that need An introductory essay provides users with general background information on the Kurds and Kurdistan With over 800 entries the annotated bibliography provides information on the most important works about the Kurds and Kurdistan published from World War II through 1996 Emphasizing recent titles the book focuses on English language scholarly works Arranged in topical chapters the book opens with a section on general works then covers travel works history and archaeology politics minorities and religion in Kurdistan society economy language and education literature and folklore and culture and arts The Epipalaeolithic and Neolithic in the Eastern Fertile Crescent Tobias Richter,Hojjat Darabi,2023-11-30 This volume brings together the latest results and discussions from research carried out in the eastern Fertile Crescent the so called hilly flanks and adjacent regions as well as providing key historical perspectives on earlier fieldwork in the region The emergence of sedentary food producing societies in southwest Asia ca 10 000 years ago has been a key research focus for archaeologists since the 1930s This book provides a balance to the weight of work undertaken in the western Fertile Crescent namely the Levant and southern Anatolia This preference has led to a heavy emphasis on these regions in discussions about where when and how the transition from hunting and gathering to plant cultivation and animal domestication occurred Chapters assess the role of the eastern Fertile Crescent as a key region in the Neolithization process in southwest Asia highlighting the key and important contributions people in this region made to the emergence of sedentary farming societies This book is primarily aimed at academics researching the transition from hunting and gathering to agriculture in southwest Asia It will also be of interest to archaeologists working on this transition in other parts of Eurasia

Systems Lewis R. Binford,2017-07-05 Archeology shares with other anthropological sciences the goal of explaining differences and similarities among cultural systems Sally R Binford and Lewis R Binford therefore are concerned with theory and arguments which treat problems of the interrelationship of cultural variables with explanatory value Archeology in Cultural Systems is devoted to four different aspects of archeology This book progresses from theoretical methodological discussions to specific consideration of archeological materials It focuses on the analysis of archeological remains from a single site Its concern is primarily with recognizing measuring and explaining variability in the form and distribution of a site s cultural remains The authors argue that internal variability derives from the composition and distribution of societal segments represented at the site The work then shifts to study of archeological components or their attributes and seeks explanations for observed differences and similarities A final section of the volume comments and discusses materials in the volume Archeology in Cultural Systems is not a monolithic presentation of any particular school of archeological thought There are common interests and many points of agreement among the authors but there is also diversity of opinion on several points These points are the focus of research here Depositional History of Franchthi Cave William R.

Farrand,2018-10-26 This fascicle describes the background of the Franchthi project and its excavation history and methodology Particle size mineralogy and chemistry are all taken into consideration as the cultural remains and the sediments from the cave are analyzed to determine their origin and history William Farrand constructs an integrated stratigraphy for the entire cave using excavators notes laboratory analyses and personal field data to correlate sequences in separate trenches On the basis of some 60 radiocarbon dates the evolution and chronology of the sedimentary fill is postulated The Walking Larder Juliet Clutton-Brock,2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of more than 20 volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 attempting to bring together not only archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world as well as academics from contingent disciplines but also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds This text looks at human animal interactions especially some of the less well known aspects of the field A number of studies in the book document some of the vast changes humankind has wrought upon the natural environment through the movement of various species of animals around the world These chapters provide contributions to the understanding of contemporary ecological problems especially the deforestation taking place to provide grazing for live stock The 31 contributions offer a shop window of approaches primarily from a biological perspective
