Stuart, 2000-05-01 At the height of their power in the late eleventh century the Chaco Anasazi dominated a territory in the American Southwest larger than any European principality of the time A vast and powerful alliance of thousands of farming hamlets and nearly 100 spectacular towns integrated the region through economic and religious ties and the whole system was interconnected with hundreds of miles of roads It took these Anasazi farmers more than seven centuries to lay the agricultural organizational and technological groundwork for the creation of classic Chacoan civilization which lasted about 200 years only to collapse spectacularly in a mere 40 Why did such a great society collapse Who survived Why In this lively book anthropologist archaeologist David Stuart presents answers to these questions that offer useful lessons to modern societies His account of the rise and fall of the Chaco Anasazi brings to life the people known to us today as the architects of Chaco Canyon the spectacular national park in New Mexico that thousands of tourists visit every year

Aligned to national history standards and packed with images primary resources current citations and extensive teaching and learning support the World History Encyclopedia gives students educators researchers and interested general readers a means of navigating the broad sweep of history unlike any ever published     Dynamics of Southwest Prehistory Linda S. Cordell, George J. Gumerman, 2006-05-28 Emerging from a School of American Research this work reviews the general status of archaeological knowledge in 9 key regions of the Southwest to examine broader questions of cultural development which affected the Southwest as a whole and to consider an overall conceptual model of the prehistoric Southwest after the advent of sedentism     Did Ancient Chinese Explore America Charlotte Harris Rees, 2014-04-23 A Chinese classic the Shan Hai Jing reportedly from 2000 BC claimed travels to the ends of the earth However today many while accepting the antiquity of this account believe it was just mythology But was it Testing the hypothesis that the Shan Hai Jing described actual surveys of North America Charlotte Harris Rees author of books about early Chinese exploration followed an alleged 1100 mile Chinese trek along the eastern slope of the US Rocky Mountains The Chinese account should have been easy to disprove In the travelogue Did Ancient Chinese Explore America Rees candidly shares her initial doubts then her search and discoveries She weaves together history subtle humor academic studies and many photographs to tell a compelling story     Mimbres During the Twelfth Century Margaret Cecile Nelson, 1999 During the mid twelfth century villages that had been occupied by the Mimbres people in what is now southwestern New Mexico were depopulated and new settlements were formed While most scholars view abandonment in terms of failed settlements Margaret Nelson shows that for the Mimbres abandonment of individual communities did not necessarily imply abandonment of regions By examining the economic and social reasons for change among the Mimbres Nelson reconstructs a process of shifting residence as people spent more time in field camps and gradually transformed them into small hamlets while continuing to farm their old fields Challenging current interpretations of abandonment of the Mimbres area through archaeological excavation and survey she suggests that agricultural practices evolved toward the farming of multiple fields among which families moved with small social groups traveling frequently between small pueblos rather than being aggregated in large villages Mimbres during the Twelfth Century is the first book length contribution on this topic for the Classic Mimbres period and also addresses current debates on the role of Casas Grandes in these changes By rethinking abandonment Nelson shows how movement by prehistoric cultivators maintained continuity of occupation within a region and invites us to reconsider the dynamic relationship between people and their land     Farmington Resource Management Plan , 2003     Los Alamos National Laboratory Continued Operation Site-Wide , 1999     Catalog of Federal Domestic Assistance , 1995 Identifies and describes specific government assistance opportunities such as loans grants counseling and procurement contracts available under many agencies and programs     Ancient Burial Practices in the American Southwest Douglas R.
