Prehistoric Orkney:

Orkney Caroline Wickham-Jones, 2013-05-13 Orkney lies only 20 miles north of mainland Scotland yet for many centuries its culture was more Scandinavian than Scottish Strong westerly winds account for the scarcity of trees on Orkney and also for the tradition of well constructed stone structures As a result the islands boast a large number of exceptionally well preserved remains which help us to form a detailed picture of Orcadian life through the ages Sites and remains to be explored include settlements from the Stone Age stone circles and burials from the Bronze Age Iron Age brochs Viking castles the magnificent cathedral of St Magnus in Kirkwall Renaissance palaces a Martello tower from the Napoleonic Wars and numerous remains from the Second World War In this updated edition of her best selling book Caroline Wickham Jones who has worked extensively on Orcadian sites for many years introduces the history of the islands and provides a detailed survey of the principal places and sites of historic interest Images of Prehistory Peter Fowler, 1990-11-15 A collection of atmospheric images of Britain's prehistoric past and a showcase for the work of one of the country's leading landscape

photographers Dust jacket Prehistoric Orkney Anna Ritchie, 1995 An evocative look at the ancient Scottish monuments and what they reveal about the Orcadian way of life from the earliest farmers around 4000 BC to the Viking onslaught of AD 800 Prehistoric Farming in Europe Graeme Barker, 1985-07-11 Drawing upon his own extensive knowledge of European archaeology Graeme Barker has impressively integrated the full range of archaeological data to produce in this book a masterly account of prehistoric farming in Europe on a unique scale He makes use of modern archaeological techniques to reconstruct the lives of prehistoric farmers in remarkable detail Not only do we now have a vivid picture of the prehistoric farmyard but we know what animals were kept how they were fed and why they were bred Evidence for crops grown and techniques of cultivation and husbandry helps recreate the prehistoric landscape Even the social organisation that determined the use of resources and provided the crucial stimulus for agricultural change can be relived Graeme Barker develops his argument through analogies with the agricultural history of classical and medieval Europe and concludes that today's industrial farmers can learn much from the successes and failures of early European farming The Mystery of Doggerland Graham Phillips, 2023-07-25 A scientific exploration of the advanced ancient civilization known as Doggerland or Fairland that disappeared 5 000 years ago Looks at the latest archaeological and scientific evidence preserved beneath the North Sea and on the tiny island of Fair Isle Examines Doggerland's sophisticated technology including how its people were able to melt solid rock to create vitrified structures far stronger than concrete Shows how the survivors of the destruction of Doggerland sailed to the British Isles and established the megalithic culture that built Stonehenge New marine archaeological evidence has revealed the remains of a large landmass to the north of Britain that hosted an advanced civilization 1 000 years before the recognized first civilizations of ancient Egypt Mesopotamia or India Remembered in Celtic legends as Tu lay and referred to by geologists as Doggerland or Fairland this civilization began at least as early as 4000 BCE

but was ultimately destroyed by rising sea levels huge tsunamis and a terrible viral epidemic released from melting permafrost during a cataclysmic period of global warming Exploring the latest archaeological findings and recent scientific analysis of Doggerland s underwater remains Graham Phillips shows that this ancient culture had sophisticated technology and advanced medical knowledge He looks at evidence detected with remote sensing and seismic profiling of many artificial structures complex settlements gigantic earthworks epic monoliths and huge stone circles dated to more than 5 500 years ago preserved beneath the ground and on the ocean floor He also looks at the small part of the Fairland landmass that still exists Fair Isle a tiny island some 45 miles north of the Orkney Islands of Scotland Phillips shows how when Fairland sank beneath the waves around 3100 BCE its last survivors traveled by boat to settle in the British Isles where they established the megalithic culture that built Stonehenge Revealing the vast archaeological evidence in support of the existence of Doggerland as well as its threads of influence in early cultures around the world Phillips also shows how the fate of this sophisticated ancient culture is a warning from history the cataclysmic events that happened to the first civilizations could happen again as the world heats up

Exploring Prehistoric Identity in Europe Victoria Ginn, Rebecca Enlander, Rebecca Crozier, 2014-03-19 Identity is relational and a construct and is expressed in a myriad of ways For example material culture and its pluralist meanings have been readily manipulated by humans in a prehistoric context in order to construct personal and group identities Artefacts were often from or reminiscent of far flung places and were used to demonstrate membership of an imagined regional or European community Earthworks frequently archive maximum visual impact through elaborate ramparts and entrances with the minimum amount of effort indicating that the construction of identities were as much in the eye of the perceiver as of the perceived Variations in domestic architectural style also demonstrate the malleability of identity and the prolonged intermittent use of particular places for specific functions indicates that the identity of place is just as important in our archaeological understanding as the identity of people By using a wide range of case studies both temporally and spatially these thought processes may be explored further and diachronic and geographic patterns in expressions of identity investigated
