Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature ,1923 Prehistoric Journeys Vicki Cummings,Robert Johnston,2007 This collection of thirteen papers focuses on what it meant to be on the move at different times in prehistory Ideas of journeys and travel are integral to many traditions of interpreting the prehistoric archaeological record Travel was after all the driving force behind the formation and transformation of identity How ironic it is that this feature of prehistory has been so overlooked when the ancient world's discovery in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Centuries occurred primarily as the result of travel The contributors to this volume see journeys as an integral part of prehistoric life socially meaningful which must be understood within their pre historic contexts Monuments in the Making Vicki Cummings,Colin Richards,2021-09-29 In this book we offer an exciting new perspective on a distinctive form of megalithic monument that is found across most areas of northern Europe In order to achieve this we have abandoned outmoded typological classifications and reintroduced the term dolmen to embrace a range of sites that share a common form of megalithic architecture the elevation and display of a substantial stone By critically assessing the traditionally assigned role of these monuments and their architecture as megalithic tombs the presence of the dead is reassessed and argued to form part of a process generating vibrancy to the materiality of the dolmen As such this book argues that the megalithic architecture identified as a dolmen is not a chambered tomb at all but instead is a qualitatively different form of monument We also provide an entirely different conception of the utility of this extraordinary megalithic architecture one that seeks to emphasize its building as articulating discourses of wonder as a broad social strategy In this respect it is important to remember that many of these monuments were erected very early in the Neolithic and as a consequence of new people entering new lands or social transformation In short dolmens are monumental constructions employing experimental and emergent technologies to raise huge stones which once built enchant those who come within their spaces Our claim is that dolmens were megalithic installations of affect magical and extraordinary in construction and strategically positioned to induce both drama and awe in their encounter Classic Period

Mixtequilla, Veracruz, Mexico Barbara L. Stark,2001 This archaeological site report presents new insights on an important but poorly studied Mesoamerican culture the Classic period of the Mexican Gulf Coast Stark discusses her excavations at several sites in the Mixtequilla region describes the deposits and artifacts encountered and provides interpretations of the sites and their significance within a wider context Her analysis of the ephemeral remains of perishable houses is innovative and contains one of the most sophisticated treatments of site formation processes yet carried out in Latin America

Particularly important is the identification of some of the earliest spindle whorls in Mesoamerica leading to new views of the importance of cotton textiles in the changing economies of the Late Preclassic and Classic periods Superb artifact illustrations detailed descriptions and an ample use of data tables make this a valuable reference work Mesoamericanists will find much of interest in this book as will readers interested in tropical lowland settlement patterns household archaeology and site formation processes

Cultural Heritage Microbiology Ralph Mitchell, Christopher J. Landscapes of Neolithic Ireland Gabriel Cooney, 2012-12-06

Landscapes of Neolithic Ireland is the first volume to be devoted solely to the Irish Neolithic using an innovative landscape and anthropological perspective to provide significant new insights on the period Gabriel Cooney argues that the archaeological evidence demonstrates a much more complex picture than the current orthodoxy on Neolithic Europe with its assumption of mobile lifestyles suggests He integrates the study of landscape settlement agriculture material culture and burial practice to offer a rounded realistic picture of the complexities and the realities of Neolithic lives and societies in Ireland

Mortuary Monuments and Burial Grounds of the Historic Period Harold Mytum, 2012-12-06

Burial grounds strike an immediate chord with all who visit them They are landscapes full of pathos and cultural associations which many find attractive though a minority feel are too morbid to deserve detailed attention This book is designed to offer a framework for studying historic burial ground monuments and contains a certain amount of information regarding below ground archaeology as some projects will involve the study of both Moreover from a research perspective above and below ground archaeology together can throw considerable light on the process of dying body disposal and commemoration that formed a continuum for those involved However the more easily accessible graveyard memorials can be used to study many aspects of past culture beyond that directly associated with death and they are the focus of the book Most people who become interested in historic graveyard memorials come to the subject via the material itself Only rarely does a research question get posed and graveyard data seem like an appropriate arena for investigation This has the advantage that many researchers have some ideas about the data available but the disadvantage that they may not have clear questions to ask of it nor how to set their discoveries in a wider intellectual context

Naturalists' Field Club ,1903 Stonehenge Michael Parker Pearson, Stonehenge Riverside Project (England), 2012-06-07

Our knowledge about Stonehenge has changed dramatically as a result of the Stonehenge Riverside Project 2003 2009 led by Mike Parker Pearson and included not only Stonehenge itself but also the nearby great henge enclosure of Durrington Walls. This book is about the people who built Stonehenge and its relationship to the surrounding landscape. The book explores the theory that the people of Durrington Walls built both Stonehenge and Durrington Walls and that the choice of stone for constructing Stonehenge has a significance so far undiscovered, namely that stone was used for monuments to the dead. Through years of thorough and extensive work at the site, Parker Pearson and his team unearthed evidence of the Neolithic inhabitants and builders which connected the settlement at Durrington Walls with the henge and contextualised Stonehenge within the larger site complex linked by the River Avon as well as in terms of its relationship with the rest of the British Isles. Parker Pearson's book changes the way that we think about Stonehenge, correcting previously erroneous chronology and dating, filling in gaps in our knowledge about its people and how they lived, identifying a previously unknown type of Neolithic building, discovering Bluestonehenge, a circle of 25 blue stones from western Wales, and confirming what started as a hypothesis that Stonehenge was a place of the dead through more than 64 cremation burials unearthed there which span the monument's use during the third millennium BC. In lively and engaging prose, Parker Pearson brings to life the imposing ancient monument that continues to hold a fascination for everyone.

Ritual Human Sacrifice in Mesoamerica Rubén G. Mendoza, Linda Hansen, 2024-03-01. This edited volume addresses the environmental and cultural underpinnings of the kind of social conflict that spawned the origins and elaboration of ritualized human and animal sacrifice in Mesoamerica. The chapters variously document the place of cultural evolution and social complexity in the origins and elaboration of ritual human sacrifice, cannibalism, and trophy taking across a broad spectrum of Mesoamerican cultural and social contexts that first saw the light of day before 2600 BCE and rapidly developed and proliferated across the Mesoamerican world in the centuries to follow. They study the developments in sacrifice rituals through the centuries into the first millennium CE when the Mexica, Aztec, and their allies had elevated ritual human sacrifice such that they produced a plethora of sacrificial acts, modes, and manners of death, and associated deities to articulate the necro-cultures and blood tribute of the times. The chapters further study present-day rites of Amerindian communities from throughout Mesoamerica that include paying homage to the deities of earth and sky through sacrifice and consumption of animal surrogates. The interdisciplinary effort undertaken by this international cadre of scientists, including anthropologists, bioarchaeologists, art historians, ethnohistorians, iconographers, and religious studies experts, provides a particularly rich forum for launching an interrogation into the role of conflict, environment, and social complexity in the emergence and persistence of ritual violence and human sacrifice in the Mesoamerican world.

On Art in the Ancient Near East Irene Winter, 2010. This second volume of Collected Essays, complement to volume one, focuses upon the art and culture of the third millennium B C E in ancient Mesopotamia. Stress is upon the ability of free standing sculpture and public monuments to both reflect cultural attitudes and to affect a viewing audience Using Sumerian and Akkadian texts as well as works the power of visual experience is pursued toward an understanding not only of the monuments but also of their times and our own
