International Scientific Committee for the Drafting of a General History of Africa,1990 This volume covers the period from the end of the Neolithic era to the beginning of the seventh century of our era This lengthy period includes the civilization of Ancient Egypt the history of Nubia Ethiopia North Africa and the Sahara as well as of the other regions of the continent and its islands Publisher s description

The Desert Fayum Reinvestigated Simon J. Holdaway,Willeke Wendrich,2017-12-31 The Neolithic is thought to have arrived in Egypt via diffusion from an origin in southwest Asia relatively late compared to neighboring locations The authors suggest an alternative approach to understanding the development of food production in Egypt based on the results of new fieldwork in the Fayum They provide the results of a detailed study of the Fayum archaeological landscape interpretable at different temporal and spatial scales using an expanded version of low level food production to organize observations concerning paleoenvironment socioeconomy settlement and mobility While domestic plants and animals were indeed introduced from elsewhere when a number of aspects of the archaeological record are compared a settlement system is suggested that has no obvious analogues with the Neolithic in southwest Asia The results obtained from the Fayum are used to assess other contemporary sites in Egypt

Mobility and pastoralism in the Egyptian Western Desert. Steinplätze in the Holocene regional settlement patterns Marina Gallinaro,2018-03-15 This volume presents the results of a long study begun in 2004 within the framework of the Archaeological Mission in the Farafra Oasis of Egypt directed by Barbara Barich and Giulio Lucarini of the Sapienza University of Rome now under the auspices of ISMEO The book focuses on the features known as Steinplatz type hearths and their role in the settlement patterns of the human groups living in the Egyptian Western Desert during the middle and late Holocene Steinpl tze are concentrations of burned and fire cracked stones that vary in shape and size and have often been slightly elevated above the present ground level by post depositional erosion processes Occurring both as isolated features and in clusters they are often the only visible structures or even traces of ancient settlements The study of these features is closely interconnected with the mobility strategies of the communities that inhabited this desert region during a period of higher average rainfall than at present but also characterised by significant climate fluctuations with humid periods interrupted by dry spells and eventually ending in an overall trend towards greater desertification The use of the Steinplatz type hearths was most widespread in the second half of the sixth millennium BC when mobile occupation strategies replaced a more sedentary model An analysis of the Farafra Oasis Steinplatz is coupled with a general reassessment of the subsistence and mobility models hitherto proposed for the Eastern Sahara suggesting an integrated occupation system for Farafra itself The economy of the forager herders of the middle Holocene during the climate optimum 6900-5550 cal BC seems to have relied significantly on herding small livestock but also on hunting and likely concentrated on the gathering of wild cereals such as sorghum During the climate optimum forms of seasonal stabilisation of the settlement strategy seem to emerge with the alternating occupation of two different winter and summer villages consisting of clusters of stone slab huts short term task specific camps using Steinplatz logistically completed the system After this phase only short term camps with Steinplatz were occupied These were probably directly dependent on the wettest areas at the centre of the oases and made use of a tethered exploitation strategy with brief movements from the central oasis daisy chain movements The use strategies of the Steinplatz type hearths within the mobile settlement system are outlined adopting a clear and immediately assessable model Yet although they are among the most distinctive of the Sahara's archaeological features Steinplatz have received little systematic attention in recent decades Marina Gallinaro's work thus marks a new phase in their study one that draws them back into discussions of how early livestock keeping populations in Northeast Africa used the resources and landscapes to the west of the Nile along a trajectory of increasing aridification that eventually culminated in the desert we see today Lucidly written Gallinaro's volume will I believe help inspire individuals to take up the research agenda she sets out At a time when so much of the Sahara is off limits to archaeological fieldwork it is deeply gratifying to see here yet more evidence of the thoroughness and high quality that have characterized the work of Italian archaeologists in this region of Africa over many decades The continuing publication of their research Marina Gallinaro's included in the Arid Zone Archaeology monograph series will surely help sustain widespread interest in Saharan archaeology until it becomes possible to excavate and survey again free of current geopolitical restrictions May that day come soon Prof Peter Mitchell University of Oxford UK

The Prehistory of Egypt
Beatrix Midant-Reynes, 2000 This book covers the prehistory of the Nile Valley from Nubia to the Mediterranean during the period from the earliest hominid settlement around 700 000 BC to the beginnings of dynastic Egypt at the end of the fourth millennium BC The author explores the prehistoric foundations of many of the cultural traditions of Pharaonic Egypt The book focuses primarily on the fifteen millennia from 18 000 to 3 000 BC when different cultures can be identified and the earliest forms of agriculture traced with some detail Textile and ceramic production began at the end of the seventh millennium and were deployed with great skill and considerable sophistication by the beginning of the Predynastic Period at around 4 500 BC By the Early Dynastic Period much that is considered characteristic of Ancient Egypt such as cosmology and burial rites was already established tradition This account of prehistoric Egypt will be welcomed as an outstanding narrative combining both scholarship and accessibility The Archaeology of Africa Bassey Andah,Alex Okpoko,Thurstan Shaw,Paul Sinclair,2014-05-22 Africa has a vibrant past It emerges from this book as the proud possessor of a vast and highly complicated interweaving of peoples and cultures practising an enormous diversity of economic and social strategies in an extraordinary range of environmental situations At long last the archaeology of Africa has revealed enough of Africa s unwritten past to confound preconceptions about this continent and to upset the picture inferred from historic written records Without an understanding of its past complexities it is impossible to grasp Africa s present let alone its future
