Premier Homme:

Lucrezia Borgia Victor Hugo, 2018 Lucrezia Borgia is a drama by Victor Hugo The French writer finished it in 1833 The historical work portrays the Renaissance era Italian aristocrat Lucrezia Borgia The libretto of Donizetti's opera Lucrezia Borgia was based on Hugo's play France's Lost Empires Kate Marsh, Nicola Frith, 2011-01-01 This collection of essays investigates the fundamental role that the loss of colonial territories at the end of the Ancien Régime and post World War II has played in shaping French memories and colonial discourses In identifying loss and nostalgia as key tropes in cultural representations these essays call for a re-evaluation of French colonialism as a discourse informed not just by narratives of conquest but equally by its histories of defeat , "Ces forces obscures de l'âme" Christine Margerrison, 2008-01-01 This is the first major investigation of Camus's prose fiction to explore the developing presentation of women from the author's earliest writings to his last unfinished novel Avoiding the traditional relegation of this subject to an emotional or private sphere it traces Camus's intellectual development in order to demonstrate the centrality of this subject to Camus's work as a whole If the Absurd constructed over the body of the real woman liberates the writer to follow a true path of literary creation the impending loss of his Algerian homeland impells a return to all that he had not been free to choose the ties of blood These conflictual and unresolved ties are here investigated in conjunction with the presentation of mythical female figures expressing Camus's darkest fears partly voiced in other writings concerning that other Algeria for which he would never fight Exploring complex interconnections between sexuality race and colonialism this volume is pertinent to all who are interested in the writings of Camus particularly those seeking relevant new ways of approaching his work Death, War, and Sacrifice Bruce Lincoln, 1991-08-27 One of the world's leading specialists in Indo-European religion and society Bruce Lincoln expresses in these essays his severe doubts about the existence of a much hypothesized prototypical Indo-European religion Written over fifteen years the essays six of them previously unpublished fall into three parts Part I deals with matters Indo-European in a relatively unproblematized way exploring a set of haunting images that recur in descriptions of the Otherworld from many cultures While Lincoln later rejects this methodology these chapters remain the best available source of data for the topics they address In Part II Lincoln takes the data for each essay from a single culture area and shifts from the topic of dying to that of killing Of particular interest are the chapters connecting sacrifice to physiology a master discourse of antiquity that brought the cosmos the human body and human society into an ideologically charged correlation Part III presents Lincoln's most controversial case against a hypothetical Indo-European protoculture Reconsidering the work of the prominent Indo-Europeanist Georges Dumézil Lincoln argues that Dumézil's writings were informed and inflected by covert political concerns characteristic of French fascism This collection is an invaluable resource for students of myth ritual ancient societies anthropology and the history of religions Bruce Lincoln is professor of humanities and religious studies at the University of Minnesota The Narrative Mediterranean Claudia Esposito, 2013-11-29 The Narrative Mediterranean

Beyond France and the Maghreb examines literary texts by writers from the Maghreb and positions them in direct relation to increasingly querulous debates on the shifting identity of the modern Mediterranean This book argues that reading works by writers such as Albert Camus and Tahar Ben Jelloun alongside authors such as Fawzi Mellah and Mahi Binebine in a transnational rather than binary interpretive framework transcends a colonial and postcolonial bind in which France is the dominant point of reference While focusing on works in French this book also examines Maghrebi authors who write in Italian The texts examined in The Narrative Mediterranean critique narrow identitarian labeling warn against sectarianism and announce the necessity of multiple forms of translation and historical rewritings Their modes of expression differ as they range from poetic to baroque to realist as do their concerns which include but are not limited to the human condition gender identity and emigration Claudia Esposito explains how these writers operate between and outside the confines of several nations tracing imagined affiliative horizons and consequently address questions of multiple forms of cultural political sexual and existential belonging Esposito convincingly demonstrates that in a Mediterranean context moving between nations means to be in both foreign and familiar physical affective and intellectual spaces Royal Dictionary, English and French and French and English Charles Fleming, 1854

The Algerian War Retold Meaghan Emery, 2019-11-28 The Algerian War Retold Of Camus's Revolt and Postwar Reconciliation focuses on specific aspects of Albert Camus's ethical thought through a study of his writings in conjunction with late 20th and early 21st century works written by Franco Maghrebi authors on the topic of the Algerian War 1954-1962 It combines historical inquiry with literary analysis in order to examine the ways in which Camus's concept of revolt in his novels journalistic writing and philosophical essays reverberates in productions pertaining to that war Following an examination of Sartre's and Camus's debate over revolution and violence one that in another iteration asks whether FLN sponsored terrorism was justified The Algerian War Retold uncovers how today's writers have adopted paradigms common to both Sartre's and Camus's oeuvres when seeking to break the silence and influence France's national narrative In the end it attempts to answer the critical questions raised by literary acts of violence including whether Camusian ethics ultimately lead to justice for the Other in revolt These questions are particularly poignant in view of recent presidential declarations in response to years of active pressure applied by associations and other citizens groups prompting the French government to acknowledge the state's abandonment of the harkis condemn the repression of peaceful protest and recognize the French army's systematic use of torture in Algeria

That's One Small Stamp for a Man: The Philatelic Journey of Apollo 11 Richard Weaver, 2019-03-18 Apollo 11 inspired countries around the world to issue stamps to commemorate man's first landing on the moon For the first time ever more than 250 stamps from Afghanistan to Yemen have been assembled in one volume

Albert Camus in the 21st Century, 2008-01-01 In the first decade of a new century this collection of bilingual essays examines Camus's continuing popularity for a new generation of readers In crucial respects the world Camus knew has changed beyond all recognition decolonization the fall of the Iron Curtain a new era of globalization and the rise of new forms of terrorism have all provoked a reconsideration of Camus's writings. If the Absurd once struck a particular chord, Meursault is as likely now to be seen as a colonial figure who expresses the alienation of the settler from the land of his birth. Yet this increasing orthodoxy must also take account of the reasons why a new community of Algerian readers have embraced Camus. Equally once isolated because of his anti-Communist stance, Camus has been taken up by disaffected members of the Left convinced that new forms of totalitarianism are abroad in the world. This volume, which ranges from interpretations of Camus's literary works to his journalism and his political writings, will be of interest to all those seeking to re-evaluate Camus's work in the light of ethical and political issues that are of continuing relevance today. The

Word From Paris John Sturrock, 1999-12-17 In this accessible guide to the literature and thought of 20th century France, Sturrock clarifies the various intellectual movements that have marked the recent history of French writing, including Existentialism, Structuralism and the OuLiPo. The Cambridge Companion to Camus Edward J. Hughes, 2007-04-26 Albert Camus is one of the iconic figures of twentieth century French literature, one of France's most widely read modern literary authors and one of the youngest winners of the Nobel Prize for Literature. As the author of L'Étranger and the architect of the notion of the Absurd, in the 1940s he shot to prominence in France and beyond. His work nevertheless attracted hostility as well as acclaim, and he was increasingly drawn into bitter political controversies, especially the issue of France's place and role in the country of his birth, Algeria. Most recently, postcolonial studies have identified in his writings a set of preoccupations ripe for revisitation. Situating Camus in his cultural and historical context, this 2007 Companion explores his best-selling novels, his ambiguous engagement with philosophy, his theatre, his increasingly high-profile work as a journalist, and his reflection on ethical and political questions that continue to concern readers today. The Development of Albert

Camus's Concern for Social and Political Justice Mark Orme, 2007 Chronological in character, the book seeks to evaluate the evolution of Camus's lifelong preoccupation with sociopolitical justice as expressed in a range of nonfictional genres: essays, journalism, articles, speeches, notebooks, and personal correspondence, where the writer's own concerns come directly to the fore. Memory and Complicity Debarati Sanyal, 2015-03-02 Since World War II, French and Francophone literature and film have repeatedly sought not to singularize the Holocaust as the paradigm of historical trauma, but rather to connect its memory with other memories of violence, namely that of colonialism. These works produced what Debarati Sanyal calls a memory in complicity, attuned to the gray zones that implicate different regimes of violence across history as well as those of different subject positions such as victim, perpetrator, witness, and reader-spectator. Examining a range of works from Albert Camus, Primo Levi, Alain Resnais, and Jean-Paul Sartre to Jonathan Littell, Assia Djebar, Giorgio Agamben, and Boualem Sansal, Memory and Complicity develops an inquiry into the political force and ethical dangers of such implications, contrasting them with contemporary models for thinking about trauma and violence and offering an extended meditation on the role of aesthetic form, especially allegory, within acts of transhistorical remembrance. What are the political benefits and ethical risks of invoking the memory of one history in order to address another What is the role of complicity in making these connections How does complicity rather than affect based discourses of trauma shame and melancholy open a critical engagement with the violence of history What is it about literature and film that have made them such powerful vehicles for this kind of connective memory work As it offers new readings of some of the most celebrated and controversial novelists filmmakers and playwrights from the French speaking world Memory and Complicity addresses these questions in order to reframe the way we think about historical memory and its political uses today Choices and Conflicts Hans van Stralen,2005 This book approaches literary existentialism 1935 1960 from a philosophical point of view and provides a semantic frame through which the primary works of this movement can be interpreted Readings of Sartre S bato Camus B ll De Beauvoir Nooteboom and others emphasize the place and themes specific to each writer within literary existentialism as a whole One of the most original features of this study is its focus on the central notion of engagement after 1960 Having highlighted its waning in postmodernism van Stralen then demonstrates the vigorous resurgence of this pivotal concept in postcolonial discourses

Corpus Reformatorum ,1866 Montaigne et ses trois premiers-nés Élie Faure,1926 Ezourvedam Ludo Rocher,1984 The Ezourvedam used by Voltaire among others as sourcebook for the most ancient of religions was thereupon found to have been a fraud Actually it was composed by a Christian the text shows him to have been a French Jesuit missionary who did not necessarily know Sanskrit in order to convert Hindus to Christianity The controversy surrounding the spurious Veda continues involving a number of scholars and missionaries particularly in the question of whether or not the Veda was composed in Sanskrit or French In tracing the history of the Ezourvedam Ludo Rocher adds a number of points one being that the text was definitely first written in French with a view to a later Sanskrit translation or more likely to one of several modern Indian vernaculars This edition is based on the manuscripts of Voltaire and Anquetil du Perron and especially on a third manuscript preserved at the Bibliotheque National in Paris wrongly catalogued there as Yajurveda This edition is therefor markedly different from the 1778 edition by the Baron de Sainte Croix Un Appel à la Prière Jordanis

Senegalese and other West African colonial soldiers known as tirailleurs who made enormous sacrifices to liberate France from German oppression Focusing on the solidarity between this special group of African American Caribbean and Francophone West African intellectuals against French colonialism this book uncovers pivotal moments of black Anglophone and Francophone cosmopolitanism and traces them to published and archived writings produced between 1914 and the middle of the twentieth century
