Premodern China A Bibliographical Introduction:

Premodern China: a bibliographical introduction Chun-shu Chang, Premodern China Chun-shu Chang, 1971 An introductory bibliography of Western language works on premodern China from historic times to the early nineteenth century China Bibliography Harriet T. Zurndorfer, 2021-12-06 This volume serves as a guide to all facets of China study from advice on choosing an appropriate literary dictionary to finding the most recent yearbooks that offer statistical data about the contemporary economy China Bibliography does not restrict itself to one particular discipline but considers the development of Chinese civilization as a whole from its imperial beginnings to the present and therefore demonstrates how one would find information about Chinese history literature religion linguistics collectanea as well as present day PRC economic and political policies Because this book also explains how bibliographical data on China has accumulated over the last 300 years including within China itself it also may help the reader understand the significance of a particular type of reference work Premodern China Zhunshu Zhang, 1971 A Bibliography of Chinese Language Materials on the People's Communes Wei-yi Ma, 2020-08-06 A research tool for scholars studying modern China particularly those focusing on the post 1949 communal system and economy The work includes full bibliographic references to some 2 800 essay articles pamphlets and other materials in Chinese taken from more than 130 publications primarily from mainland The entries are arranged are arranged topically with annotations Includes a geographic index to the communes referred to in the listed items China's Imperial Past Charles O. Hucker, 1975 A panoramic survey of the course of Chinese civilization from prehistory to 1850 when the old China began to give way China's Allocation of Fixed Capital Investment, 1952-1957 Chu-yuan Cheng, 2020-08-06 China s efforts to stimulate industrial development and economic growth through the allocation of investments are analyzed Cheng concludes with an overall assessment of the distinctive features of the allocation pattern Includes 41 statistical tables Mao Zedong's "Talks at the Yan'an Conference on Literature and Art" Bonnie McDougall, 2020-06-01 The writings of Mao Zedong have been circulated throughout the world more widely perhaps than those of any other single person this century The Talks at the Yan an Conference on Literature and Art has occupied a prominent position among his many works and has been the subject of intense scrutiny both within and outside China This text has undoubted importance to modern Chinese literature and history In particular it reveals Mao s views on such questions as the relationship between writers or works of literature and their audience or the nature and value of different kinds of literary products In this translation and commentary Bonnie S McDougall finds that Mao was in fact ahead of many of his critics in the West and his Chinese contemporaries in his discussion of literary issues Unlike the majority of modern Chinese writers deeply influenced by Western theories of literature and society including Marxism Mao remained close to traditional patterns of thought and avoided the often mechanical or narrowly literal interpretations that were the hallmark of Western schools current in China in the early twentieth century Many of the detailed discussions on the Talks in the West have been concerned with their political and historical significance However since Mao is a literary figure of some importance in twentieth century China McDougall finds it worthwhile to follow up his published remarks on the nature and source of literature and the means of its evaluation By better understanding the complex and revolutionary ideas contained in the Talks McDougall suggests we may acquire the necessary analytical tools for a more fruitful investigation into contemporary Chinese literature

Chinese Communist Materials at the Bureau of Investigation

Archives, Taiwan Peter Donovan,Carl Dorris,Carl E. Dorris,Lawrence Sullivan,Lawrence R. Sullivan,2020-08-06 During the long years of civil strife in China the Nationalist authorities amassed extensive materials on their Communist adversaries Now stored in government institutions on Taiwan these materials are an excellent source for the study of the Chinese Communist movement Among them is the Bureau of Investigation Collection BIC which holds over 300 000 volumes of primary documents on the Chinese Communist movement The purpose of Chinese Communist Materials is without any attempt at comprehensive listing of the Bureau s holdings to give scholars a representative description of the collection to point out its implications for research and suggest new areas for research at the Bureau in the fields of political science and history 1 4

Nineteenth-Century China Dilip Basu,Rhoads Murphey,2020-08-06 Materials from the past that wrongly anticipate the future or present information or judgments that are later proved misleading or erroneous are sometimes overlooked in reconstructing the past Yet such documents are as legitimate and perhaps as important as those that are vindicated by events or continue to share perspectives with later generations The five documents reproduced in Nineteenth Century China are typical of the periods from which they come but each was overtaken or contradicted by events Collected with a belief in the legitimacy of attempting to see every period as much as possible in its own terms these texts offer a glimpse of what China looked like and suggested to Englishmen on the spot in Canton and Hong Kong in the first half of the nineteenth century and how they viewed their own country and its role vis vis the China they observed The first two texts in Nineteenth Century China exemplify the imperialist mind s eagerness to explore the world to get a picture of all of its parts and as rapidly as possible to open all areas to the beneficent influence of the West notably through an expanded commerce that would enrich its Western masters Samuel Ball s Observations 1817 show how much detailed information was available to Westerners and what the mercantile British were after and an anonymous dissertation 1838 provides an example of the dream of the China as El Dorado an immense population of eager traders hard workers and willing buyers The third text 1845 is an early foreshadowing by a colonial official R M Martin of Western imperial arguments rationalizations and attitudes that would become common fifty years later The fourth selection consists of an exchange of correspondence in 1847 about British access to and use of land in the vicinity of Canton A short statement of purpose 1848 from the Morrison Education Society demonstrating a missionary enterprise combining Christian evangelism and English education concludes the book
