Prevention Of HIV And Drug Abuse:

Principles of HIV Prevention in Drug-using Populations, 2002 Prevention of HIV/AIDS and Drug Abuse G.C. Satpathy, 2003-02 Today beyond the range of any previous global epidemic human immunodeficiency virus HIV infection the cause of acquired immune deficiency syndrome AIDS has reached the proportions of a pandemic having infected millions and promising to infect millions more In many developing countries the HIV AIDS epidemic is spreading rapidly The present book focuses on the association between drug use and HIV infection and addresses the challenges that professionals and policy makers must confront in shaping national and local policies developing and implementing preventive policies and providing treatment and rehabilitative services It is also aimed at governmental and non governmental organizations and those involved in the planning coordination and implementation of strategies and programmes for HIV prevention among injecting drug users Drug Abuse: Prevention and Treatment Mangai Natarajan, 2017-05-15 Ever since the Shanghai convention in 1909 the threat posed to human well being by drug abuse has led countries around the world to take action to deal with their drug problems There are wide variations in the policies pursued but most countries try to reduce both the supply of and the demand for drugs Unfortunately there is little research consensus on the respective merits of these two approaches or about the best ways to pursue them Consequently control and prevention policies are mostly driven by political considerations economic realities and cultural expectations though research has played an important part in formulating and evaluating treatments for drug addiction This volume reviews studies on drug abuse prevention and treatment strategies under five main areas 1 Reducing supply strategies to control the flow of drugs from production to retail distribution 2 Reducing demand prevention of drug use at all stages of involvement and consumption levels 3 Reducing harm promoting situational risk reduction practices for regular users addicts and recreational users 4 Reducing addiction drug treatment options for various groups in various settings and 5 Drug policies and prescriptions focused on debates about prohibition and legalization Integrating Cultural, Observational, and Epidemiological Approaches in the Prevention of Drug Abuse and HIV/AIDS, 1999 AIDS, Drugs and Prevention Tim Rhodes, 1996 In developing HIV prevention community orientated approaches have emerged within statutory and voluntary sectors and from the communities themselves This book considers the diverse approaches and problems for professional practice AIDS and Community-Based Drug Intervention Programs Dennis Fisher, Richard Needle, 2014-05-01 Delve into the uncharted territory of the hidden drug addict users who are not in treatment not incarcerated and not officially accessible for research purposes through traditional means AIDS and Community Based Drug Intervention Programs describes short term interventions used to reduce the odds that these drug users will get infected by the Human Immunodeficiency Virus HIV The book explains new methods that are being developed such as targeted sampling social network analysis geomapping and other amalgams of both quantitative and qualitative approaches that need to be forged to overcome the challenges of the war against AIDS The research described in this important book was conducted under the Cooperative Agreement for AIDS Community Based Outreach Intervention Research funding mechanism of the National Institute on Drug Abuse NIDA Chapters include research on several ethnic groups including Alaska natives Puerto Ricans and Navaho teens AIDS and Community Based Drug Treatment Programs written by experts in the field is a broad based treatment of the subject by those who are actually doing the work in the trenches Authors cover topics such as the use of goal oriented counseling and peer support to reduce HIV AIDS risk quantitative and qualitative methods to assess behavioral change among injection drug users IDUs the importance of sampling from hidden populations in research a public health model for reducing AIDS related risk behavior among IDUs and their sexual partners characteristics of female sexual partners of IDUs strategies used to implement random sampling strategies in the recruitment of out of treatment crack and IDUs ethnographic analysis of intravenous drug use analysis of contact tracing strategies employed to combat the AIDS epidemic the use of pile sorts to enhance other tools used by drug prevention programs AIDS and Community Based Drug Intervention Programs is full of current research and useful information for professionals interested in learning about strategies for conducting HIV AIDS research among hard to reach populations Substance abuse researchers treatment professionals and people involved in AIDS prevention programs state and county health departments and criminal justice systems will find much relevant and important information to use in their daily work

Preventing HIV Infection Among Injecting Drug Users in High-Risk Countries Institute of Medicine, Board on Global Health, Committee on the Prevention of HIV Infection Among Injecting Drug Users in High-Risk Countries, 2006-12-20 Drug dependence is a complex chronic relapsing condition that is often accompanied by severe health psychological economic legal and social consequences Injecting drug users are particularly vulnerable to HIV and other bloodborne infections such as hepatitis C as a result of sharing contaminated injecting equipment All drug dependent individuals including injecting drug users IDUs may be at increased risk of HIV infection because of high risk sexual behaviors There are an estimated 13.2 million injecting drug users IDUs world wide 78 percent of whom live in developing or transitional countries The sharing of contaminated injecting equipment has become a major driving force of the global AIDS epidemic and is the primary mode of HIV transmission in many countries In some cases epidemics initially fueled by the sharing of contaminated injecting equipment are spreading through sexual transmission from IDUs to non injecting populations and through perinatal transmission to newborns Reversing the rise of HIV infections among IDUs has thus become an urgent global public health challenge one that remains largely unmet In response to this challenge the Institute of Medicine convened a public workshop in Geneva in December 2005 to gather information from experts on IDU driven HIV epidemics in the most affected regions of the world with an emphasis on countries throughout Eastern Europe the Commonwealth of Independent States and significant parts of Asia Experts from other regions also provided information on their experiences in preventing HIV infection among IDUs This report provides a summary of the workshop discussions

Preventing HIV Infection among Injecting Drug Users in High Risk Countries describes the evidence on the intermediate outcomes of drug related risk and sex related risk prior to examining the impact on HIV transmission This report focuses on programs that are designed to prevent the transmission of HIV among injecting drug users These programs range from efforts to curtail non medical drug use to those that encourage reduction in high risk behavior among drug users Although the report focuses on HIV prevention for IDUs in high risk countries the Committee considered evidence from countries around the world The findings and recommendations of this report are also applicable to countries where injecting drug use is not the primary driver but in which injection drug use is nevertheless associated with significant HIV transmission

AIDS, Drugs and Prevention Richard Hartnoll,Tim Rhodes,2002-03-11 Strong international focus with high profile contributors from the UK US France Spain and the Netherlands Lack of material attempting to evaluate critically health promotion and health service responses particularly with regard to community based interventions among hard to reach populations Richard Hartnoll is Co ordinator of the European Multi City Study of Drug Misuse and Principle Investigator on the Multi City Study of Cocaine Use AIDS and Behavior Institute of Medicine,Committee on Substance Abuse and Mental Health Issues in AIDS Research,1994-02-01 HIV is spreading rapidly and effective treatments continue to elude science Preventive interventions are now our best defense against the epidemic but they require a clear understanding of the behavioral and mental health aspects of HIV infection and AIDS AIDS and Behavior provides an update of what investigators in the biobehavioral psychological and social sciences have discovered recently about those aspects of the disease and offers specific recommendations for research directions and priorities This volume candidly discusses the sexual and drug use behaviors that promote transmission of HIV and reports on the latest efforts to monitor the epidemic in its social contexts The committee reviews new findings on how and why risky behaviors occur and efforts to develop strategies for changing such behaviors The volume presents findings on the disease s progression and on the psychosocial impacts of HIV and AIDS with a view toward intervention and improved caregiving AIDS and Behavior also evaluates the status of behavioral and prevention aspects of AIDS research at the National Institute of Mental Health the National Institute on Drug Abuse and the National Institute on Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism The volume presents background on the three institutes their recent reorganization their research budgets programs and priorities and other important details The committee offers specific recommendations for the institutes concerning the balance between biomedical and behavioral investigations adequacy of administrative structures and other research management issues Anyone interested in the continuing quest for new knowledge on preventing HIV and AIDS will want to own this book policymakers researchers research administrators public health professionals psychologists AIDS advocates and service providers faculty and students AIDS and Intravenous Drug Use C. G. Leukefeld,Robert J. Battjes,Z. Amsel,2013-01-11 Suggests that the intervention to help intravenous drug users to modify their behaviour to reduce the risk of AIDS infection should be community based this being the best way to affect the behaviour of people who decide not to avail themselves of the services of drug treatment centres

Drug Abuse and HIV/AIDS Joint United Nations Programme on HIV/AIDS., United Nations Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention, 2001 Human immunodeficiency virus HIV is efficiently transmitted by the sharing or use of contaminated needles This publication is aimed at governmental and non governmental organizations involved in the planning coordination and implementation of strategies and programmes for HIV prevention among injecting drug users It captures the details of a range of practices in order to provide useful lessons and offer references for those working in the field of drug abuse and HIV AIDS prevention The first three chapters are dedicated to 20 case studies which focus on fieldwork political mobilization and strategy development and training and networking The final chapter which is aimed at policy makers summarizes overall lessons learned and challenges for the future

Preventing HIV Transmission National Research Council and Institute of Medicine, Institute of Medicine, Panel on Needle Exchange and Bleach Distribution Programs, 1995-10-14 This volume addresses the interface of two major national problems the epidemic of HIV AIDS and the widespread use of illegal injection drugs Should communities have the option of giving drug users sterile needles or bleach for cleaning needs in order to reduce the spread of HIV Does needle distribution worsen the drug problem as opponents of such programs argue Do they reduce the spread of other serious diseases such as hepatitis Do they result in more used needles being carelessly discarded in the community The panel takes a critical look at the available data on needle exchange and bleach distribution programs reaches conclusions about their efficacy and offers concrete recommendations for public policy to reduce the spread of HIV AIDS The book includes current knowledge about the epidemiologies of HIV AIDS and injection drug use characteristics of needle exchange and bleach distribution programs and views on those programs from diverse community groups and a discussion of laws designed to control possession of needles their impact on needle sharing among injection drug users and their implications for needle exchange programs

Women, Drug Use, and HIV Infection Sally J. Stevens, Stephanie Tortu, Susan L. Coyle, 1998 In Women Drug Use and HIV Infection you ll see why AIDS is the fourth leading cause of death among women of childbearing age and you ll come to understand why it disproportionately affects minority women many of whom are poor addicted to drugs and or the sexual partners of drug users You ll gain instantaneous access to the data collected by a national multi site Cooperative Agreement funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse The quantitative and qualitative studies contained in this publication will familiarize you with the lives of women especially susceptible to HIV infection You ll also discover descriptions of prevention strategies that will lower the risk of infection in this high risk population of women In Women Drug Use and HIV Infection at least two chapters focus on each main topic giving you a deeper multilayered look at each issue Even after a few chapters you ll find that your understanding of this national societal illness will expand tremendously in these and other areas cultural contexts of various geographical areas of the United States perceptions of HIV risk among the women who use drugs the difference in risk behaviors of drug using women in cities of different sizes with different rates of HIV seroprevalence how past and current domestic violence changes the HIV risk behavior of women who are sexual partners of drug users how the trading of sex for drugs and or money is critical in tracking HIV risk behavior in women Women Drug Use and HIV Infection takes its data from a wide variety of U S locations and from a wide variety of women and organizes it in a way that you can understand process and ultimately turn toward transformative action in your rural or urban area of the country You ll get the latest in outreach and intervention efforts and you ll find yourself with more and more recommendations for future prevention AIDS, Drugs, and Society Anna Alexandrova,2004 Annotation While providing background theory on harm reduction and pragmatic public health approaches to disease prevention is focused on HIV AIDS epidemic in the countries of Central and Eastern Europe and the Newly Independent States CEE NIS This region now se Report on HIV and Drug Abuse National Institute on Drug Abuse,1989
