

OUR EARTH IN ACTION

RIVERS

Rivers Earth In Action:

The Earth as Transformed by Human Action B. L. Turner, William C. Clark, Robert W. Kates, John F. Richards, Jessica T. Mathews, William B. Meyer, 1993-01-29 The Earth as Transformed by Human Action is the culmination of a mammoth undertaking involving the examination of the toll our continual strides forward technical and social take on our world The purpose of such a study is to document the changes in the biosphere that have taken place over the last 300 years to contrast global patterns of change to those appearing on a regional level and to explain the major human forces that have driven these changes The first section deals strictly with the major human forces of the past 300 years and the second is a detailed account of the transformations of the global environment wrought by human action The final section examines a range of perspectives and theories that purport to explain human actions with regard to the biosphere Rivers in the Landscape Ellen Wohl, 2020-02-10 Rivers are the great shapers of terrestrial landscapes Very few points on Earth above sea level do not lie within a drainage basin Even points distant from the nearest channel are likely to be influenced by that channel Tectonic uplift raises rock thousands of meters above sea level Precipitation falling on the uplifted terrain concentrates into channels that carry sediment downward to the oceans and influence the steepness of adjacent hill slopes by governing the rate at which the landscape incises Rivers migrate laterally across lowlands creating a complex topography of terraces floodplain wetlands and channels Subtle differences in elevation grain size and soil moisture across this topography control the movement of ground water and the distribution of plants and animals Rivers in the Landscape Second Edition emphasizes general principles and conceptual models as well as concrete examples of each topic drawn from the extensive literature on river process and form The book is suitable for use as a course text or a general reference on rivers Aimed at advanced undergraduate students graduate students and professionals looking for a concise summary of physical aspects of rivers Rivers in the Landscape is designed to emphasize the connectivity between rivers and the greater landscape by explicitly considering the interactions between rivers and tectonics climate biota and human activities provide a concise summary of the current state of knowledge for physical process and form in rivers reflect the diversity of river environments from mountainous headwater channels to large lowland floodplain rivers and from the arctic to the tropics reflect the diverse methods that scientists use to characterize and understand river process and form including remote sensing field measurements physical experiments and numerical simulations reflect the increasing emphasis on quantification in fluvial geomorphology and the study of Earth surfaces in general provide both an introduction to the classic foundational papers on each topic and a guide to the latest particularly insightful and integrative references Protect the Living World on our Mother Earth Vidyanand Ranade, 2025-03-17 Achieving Food Water Security to the underdeveloped countries restoration of the heavily polluted rivers in the developing and underdeveloped countries and actions by all countries of the world to limit adverse impacts of the Climate Change within safe limits are the imminent needs before the Living World All countries would have to come together to disperse dark clouds of these catastrophic calamities looming large on the horizon before they overshadow our living world Role of developed countries and countries with emerging economies is most vital in this respect If these countries treat themselves as a part of the World Family in guiding and assisting their weak younger brothers to gain strength all problems before the family would be solved Let us hope that wisdom would prevail and we would save our Living World from leading to the man made Holocene mass extinction University of Michigan Official Publication ,1947
