Robert Browning Robert Browning, 2002-06 Browning was a revolutionary who broke away from conventional subjects and their conventional treatment to write about real men and women in a language not far removed from real speech In 1828 at the age of 16 Browning enrolled at the University of London but he soon left anxious to read and learn at his own pace The random nature of his education later surfaced in his writing leading to criticism of his poems' obscurities In 1833 Browning anonymously published his first major published work Pauline and in 1840 he published Sordello which was widely regarded as a failure He also tried his hand at drama but his plays including Strafford which ran for five nights in 1837 and the Bells and Pomegranates series were for the most part unsuccessful Nevertheless the techniques he developed through his dramatic monologues especially his use of diction rhythm and symbol are regarded as his most important contribution to poetry influencing such major poets of the twentieth century as Ezra Pound T S Eliot and Robert Frost
