Robert H Lowie Leaders Of Modern Anthropology Series:

Robert H. Lowie Robert Francis Murphy, Robert Harry Lowie, 1972-01-01 Ruth Benedict Margaret M. Caffrey, 2013-11-04 Poet anthropologist feminist Ruth Fulton Benedict was all of these and much more Born into the last years of the Victorian era she came of age during the Progressive years and participated in inaugurating the modern era of American life Ruth Benedict Stranger in This Land provides an intellectual and cultural history of the first half of the twentieth century through the life of an important and remarkable woman As a Lyricist poet Ruth Benedict helped define Modernism As an anthropologist she wrote the classic Patterns of Culture and at one point was considered the foremost anthropologist in the United States the first woman ever to attain such status She was an intellectual and an artist living in a time when women were not encouraged to be either In this fascinating study Margaret Caffrey attempts to place Benedict in the cultural matrix of her time and successfully shows the way in which Benedict was a product of and reacted to the era in which she lived Caffrey goes far beyond providing simple biographical material in this well written interdisciplinary study Based on exhaustive research including access for the first time to the papers of Margaret Mead Benedict's student and friend Caffrey is able to put Benedict's life clearly in perspective By identifying the family and educational influences that so sharply influenced Benedict's psychological makeup the author also closely analyzes the currents of thought that were strong when Victorianism paralleled the Modernism that figured in Benedict's life work The result is a richly detailed study of a gifted woman This important work will be of interest to students of Modernism poetry and women's studies as well as to anthropologists Beyond Separate Spheres Rosalind Rosenberg, 1982-01-01 Examines the lives of female social scientists in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries their difficulties in gaining acceptance and their pioneering studies of the differences between the sexes Catalog of Copyright Entries. Biographical Books, 1950-1980 R.R. Bowker Company. Department of Bibliography, 1980 Theory in Social and Cultural Anthropology R. Jon McGee, Richard L. Warms, 2013-08-28 Social and cultural anthropology and archaeology are rich subjects with deep connections in the social and physical sciences Over the past 150 years the subject matter and different theoretical perspectives have expanded so greatly that no single individual can command all of it Consequently both advanced students and professionals may be confronted with theoretical positions and names of theorists with whom they are only partially familiar if they have heard of them at all. Students in particular are likely to turn to the web to find quick background information on theorists and theories. However, most web-based information is inaccurate and/or lacks depth. Students and professionals need a source to provide a quick overview of a particular theory and theorist with just the basics: the who, what, where, how, and why, if you will. In response, SAGE Reference plans to publish the two-volume Theory in Social and Cultural Anthropology: An Encyclopedia. Features/Benefits: Two volumes containing approximately 335 signed entries provide users with the most authoritative and thorough reference resource available on anthropology theory, both in terms of breadth and depth of coverage. To ease navigation between and among related entries, a Reader's Guide groups entries thematically, and each entry is followed by Cross References. In the electronic version, the Reader's Guide combines with the Cross References and a detailed Index to provide robust search and browse capabilities. An appendix with a Chronology of Anthropology Theory allows students to easily chart directions and trends in thought and theory from early times to the present. Suggestions for Further Reading at the end of each entry and a Master Bibliography at the end guide readers to sources for more detailed research and discussion.

In the Almost Promised Land Hasia R. Diner, 1995-10. Seeking the reasons behind Jewish altruism toward African Americans, Hasia R. Diner shows how, in the wake of the Leo Frank trial and lynching in Atlanta, Jews came to see that their relative prosperity was no protection against the same social forces that threatened blacks. Jewish leaders and organizations genuinely believed in the cause of black civil rights. Diner suggests, but they also used that cause as a way of advancing their own interests, launching a vicarious attack on the nation that they felt had not lived up to its own ideals of freedom and equality.

American Book Publishing Record, 1973. Process and Pattern in Culture. Robert Alan Manners, Julian Haynes Steward. This festschrift commemorates Julian H. Steward. The essays were contributed by former students, colleagues, and other anthropologists whose research or thinking has been influenced by him. There was no preconceived attempt to give the volume any greater sense of unity or to impose upon the contributors any restrictions as to subject matter. On the contrary, each author was urged to write on an anthropological topic of greatest current interest to himself. Many of the essays could be placed just as handily within a division other than the one to which they have arbitrarily been assigned in the book. This kind of interchangeability may reflect, in some measure, the interrelatedness of Steward's contributions to anthropological theory. The broad relevance of all the selections to Steward's work could reflect also the extent to which his interests continue to be reflected in the work of anthropologists influenced by him. It could also reflect a parallelism of theoretical concerns within the profession that stem from the cultural ambience that produced Steward himself. Parallelisms and convergence are aspects of the kind of cultural determinism which has claimed Steward's attention during the many years that he fought a fairly lonely battle to establish the respectability of evolutionism in anthropology. Now that respectability has been achieved with an almost bandwagon fervor, it is clear that Steward, as much as anyone else in anthropology, was responsible for the change. The essays in this collection are at once a vindication of his patience an evidence of the high status he enjoys among anthropologists and a testimony to the impact of his unusual creativity on his colleagues
