Rose Is A Rose Is A Rose Gender Performa:

Gender, Writing, and Performance Helen J. Swift, 2008-02-28 This book explores the poetics of literary defences of women written by men in late medieval and early modern France It fills an important lacuna in studies of this polemic in imaginative literature by bridging the gap between Christine de Pizan and a later generation of women writers and male Neo Platonist writers who have recently all received due critical attention Whereas male authored defences composed between 1440 and 1538 have previously been dismissed as insincere or mere intellectual games Swift formulates reading strategies to overcome such critical stumbling blocks and engage with the particular rhetorical and historical contexts of these works Edited and as yet unedited texts by Martin Le Franc Jacques Milet Pierre Michault and Jean Bouchet catalogues of women allegorical narratives and debate poems are brought together and analysed in detail for the first time in order to explore for example how such works address the misogynistic spectre of Jean de Meun's Roman de la rose The book seeks to understand the contemporary popularity of the case for women la querelle des femmes as literary subject matter It investigates the publication history across this period from manuscript to print of Le Franc's Le Champion des dames Swift further aims to show how these texts hold interest for modern audiences A nexus of theoretical concerns centred on performance Judith Butler's gender performativity Derrida's re working of Austin's linguistic performativity through spectrality and dramatic performance is enlisted to articulate the interpretative engagement expected by querelle writers of their audience The reading strategies proposed foster a nuanced and enriched perspective on the question of a male author's sincerity when writing in defence of women The Embodied Performance of Gender Jack Migdalek, 2014-10-24 Norms of embodied behaviour for males and females as promoted in mainstream Western public arenas of popular culture and the everyday continue to work overtly and covertly as definitive and restrictive barriers to the realm of possibilities of embodied gender expression and appreciation They serve to disempower and marginalize those not inclined to embody according to such dichotomous models This book explores the ramifications of the way our gendered sexed and culturally constructed bodies are situated toward notions of difference and highlights the need to safeguard the social and emotional well being of those who do not fit comfortably with dominant norms of masculine feminine behaviour as deemed appropriate to biological sex The book interrogates gender inequitable machinations of education and performance arts disciplines by which educators and arts practitioners train teach choreograph and direct those with whom they work and theorizes ways of broadening personal and social notions of possible aesthetic and acceptable embodiment for all persons regardless of biological sex or sexual orientation The author's own struggles as a performance artist educator and person in the everyday as well as the findings of empirical fieldwork with educators performance arts practitioners and high school students are employed to illustrate and advocate the need for self reflexive scrutiny of existing and hidden inequities regarding the embodiment of gender within one's own habitual perspectives taste and practices New York Magazine ,1997-02-24 New York magazine itself Performance, Feminism and Affect in Neoliberal Times Elin Diamond, Denise Varney, Candice Amich, 2017-04-29

This book is a provocative new study of global feminist activism that opposes neoliberal regimes across several sites including Asia Australia Canada Europe Latin America and the United States The feminist performative acts featured in the book contest the aggressive unravelling of collectively won gains in gender sexual and racial equality the appearance of new planes of discrimination and the social consequences of political economies based on free market ideology The investigations of affect theory follow the circulation of intensities of political impingements on bodies subjective and symbolic violence and the shock of dispossession within and beyond individuals to the social and political sphere Affect is a helpful matrix for discussing the volatile interactivity between performer and spectator whether live or technologically mediated Contending that there is no activism without affect the collection brings back to the table the activist and hopeful potential of feminism
