Contemporary Black Men's Fiction and Drama Keith Clark, 2001 Demonstrating the extraordinary versatility of African American men s writing since the 1970s this forceful collection illustrates how African American male novelists and playwrights have absorbed challenged and expanded the conventions of black American writing and with it black male identity From the John Henry Syndrome a definition of black masculinity based on brute strength or violence to the submersion of black gay identity under equations of gay with white and black with straight the African American male in literature and drama has traditionally been characterized in ways that confine and silence him Contemporary Black Men s Fiction and Drama identifies the forces that limit black male discourse including traditions established by iconic African American male authors such as James Baldwin Richard Wright and Ralph Ellison This thoughtful volume also shows how contemporary black male authors use their narratives to put forward new ways of being and knowing that foster a more complete sense of self and more humane and open ways of communicating with and relating to others In the work of Charles Johnson Ernest Gaines and August Wilson contributors find paths toward broader less rigid ideas of what black literature can be what the connections among individual and communal resistance can be and how black men can transcend the imprisoning models of hyper masculinity promoted by American culture Seeking greater spiritual connection with the past John Edgar Wideman returns to the folk rituals of his family while Melvin Dixon and Brent Wade reclaim African roots and traditions Ishmael Reed struggles with a contemporary cultural oppression that he sees as an insidious echo of slavery while Clarence Major s experimental writing suggests how black men might reclaim their own voices in a culture that silences them Taking in a wide range of critical theoretical cultural gender and sexual concerns Contemporary Black Men s Fiction and Drama provides provocative new readings of a broad range of contemporary writers

Remembering the Past in Contemporary African American Fiction Keith

Byerman,2006-05-18 With close readings of more than twenty novels by writers including Ernest Gaines Toni Morrison Charles Johnson Gloria Naylor and John Edgar Wideman Keith Byerman examines the trend among African American novelists of the late twentieth century to write about black history rather than about their own present Employing cultural criticism and trauma theory Byerman frames these works as survivor narratives that rewrite the grand American narrative of individual achievement and the march of democracy The choice to write historical narratives he says must be understood historically These writers earned widespread recognition for their writing in the 1980s a period of African American commercial success as well as the economic decline of the black working class and an increase in black on black crime Byerman contends that a shared experience of suffering joins African American individuals in a group identity and writing about the past serves as an act of resistance against essentialist ideas of black experience shaping the cultural discourse of the present Byerman demonstrates that these novels disrupt the temptation in American society to engage history only to limit its significance or to crown successful individuals while forgetting the victims Baby Sweet's Raymond

The Scary Mason-Dixon Line Trudier Harris,2009-06-01 New Yorker James Baldwin once declared that a black man can look at a map of the United States contemplate the area south of the Mason Dixon Line and thus scare himself to death In The Scary Mason Dixon Line renowned literary scholar Trudier Harris explores why black writers whether born in Mississippi New York or elsewhere have consistently both loved and hated the South Harris explains that for these authors the South represents not so much a place or even a culture as a rite of passage Not one of them can consider himself or herself a true African American writer without confronting the idea of the South in a decisive way Harris considers native born black southerners Raymond Andrews Ernest J Gaines Edward P Jones Tayari Jones Yusef Komunyakaa Randall Kenan and Phyllis Alesia Perry and nonsouthern writers James Baldwin Sherley Anne Williams and Octavia E Butler The works Harris examines date from Baldwin s Blues for Mr Charlie 1964 to Edward P Jones s The Known World 2003 By including Komunyakaa s poems and Baldwin s play as well as male and female authors Harris demonstrates that the writers preoccupation with the South cuts across lines of genre and gender Whether their writings focus on slavery migration from the South to the North or violence on southern soil and whether they celebrate the triumph of black southern heritage over repression or castigate the South for its treatment of blacks these authors cannot escape the call of the South Indeed Harris asserts that creative engagement with the South represents a defining characteristic of African American writing A singular work by one of the foremost literary scholars writing today The Scary Mason Dixon Line superbly demonstrates how history and memory continue to figure powerfully in African American literary creativity

The Oxford Handbook of the Literature of the U.S. South Fred Hobson, Barbara Ladd, 2016 The Oxford Handbook of the Literature of the U S South brings together contemporary views of the literature of the region in a series of chapters employing critical tools not traditionally used in approaching Southern literature It assumes ideas of the South global multicultural plural more Souths than South that would not have been embraced two or three decades ago and it similarly expands the idea of literature itself Representative of the current range of activity in the field of Southern literary studies it challenges earlier views of antebellum Southern literature as well as in its discussions of twentieth century writing questions the assumption that the Southern Renaissance of the 1920s 1930s and 1940s was the supreme epoch of Southern expression that writing to which all that had come before had led and by which all that came afterward was judged As well as canonical Southern writers it examines Native American literature Latina o literature Asian American as well as African American literatures Caribbean studies sexuality studies the relationship of literature to film and a number of other topics which are relatively new to the field

The Power of the Porch Trudier Harris, 1996 In ways that are highly individual says Harris yet still within a shared oral tradition Zora Neale Hurston Gloria Naylor and Randall Kenan skillfully use storytelling techniques to define their audiences reach out and draw them in and fill them with anticipation Considering how such dynamics come into play in Hurston s Mules and Men Naylor s Mama Day and Kenan s Let the Dead Bury Their Dead Harris shows how the power of the porch resides in readers as well who in giving themselves over to a story confer it on the writer Against this background of give and take anticipation and fulfillment Harris considers Zora Neale Hurston's special challenges as a black woman writer in the thirties and how her various roles as an anthropologist, folklorist, and novelist intermingle in her work. In Gloria Naylor's writing, Harris finds particularly satisfying themes and characters. A New York native, Naylor came to a knowledge of the South through her parents, and during her stay on the Sea Islands, she wrote Mama Day. A southerner by birth, Randall Kenan is particularly adept in getting his readers to accept aspects of African American culture that their rational minds might have wanted to reject. Although Kenan is set apart from Hurston and Naylor by his alliances with a new generation of writers intent upon broaching certain taboo subjects in his case, gay life in small southern towns, Kenan's Tims Creek is as rife with the otherworldly and the fantastic as Hurston's New Orleans and Naylor's Willow Springs. Ebony, 1980-09 EBONY is the flagship magazine of Johnson Publishing. Founded in 1945 by John H. Johnson, it still maintains the highest global circulation of any African American focused magazine. Southern Writers Joseph M. Flora, Amber Vogel, 2006-06-21 This new edition of Southern Writers assumes its distinguished predecessor's place as the essential reference on literary artists of the American South. Broadly expanded and thoroughly revised, it boasts 604 entries, nearly double the earlier edition's, written by 264 scholars. For every figure, major and minor, from the venerable and canonical to the fresh and innovative, a biographical sketch and chronological list of published works provide comprehensive, concise, up-to-date information. Here, in one convenient source, are the South's novelists and short story writers, poets and dramatists, memoirists and essayists, journalists, scholars, and biographers from the colonial period to the twenty-first century. What constitutes a southern writer is always a matter for debate. Editors Joseph M. Flora and Amber Vogel have used a generous definition that turns on having a significant connection to the region in either a personal or literary sense. New to this volume are younger writers who have emerged in the quarter century since the dictionary's original publication, as well as older talents previously unknown or unacknowledged. For almost every writer found in the previous edition, a new biography has been commissioned. Drawn from the very best minds on southern literature and covering the full spectrum of its practitioners, Southern Writers is an indispensable reference book for anyone intrigued by the subject.
