Waste Carl A. Zimring,William L. Rathje, Consulting Editor,2012-02-27 Archaeologists and anthropologists have long studied artifacts of refuse from the distant past as a portal into ancient civilizations but examining what we throw away today tells a story in real time and becomes an important and useful tool for academic study Trash is studied by behavioral scientists who use data com piled from the exploration of dumpsters to better understand our modern society and culture Why does the average American household send 470 pounds of uneaten food to the garbage can on an annual basis How do different societies around the world cope with their garbage in these troubled environmental times How does our trash give insight

Melosi,2004-11-26 As recently as the 1880s most American cities had no effective means of collecting and removing the mountains of garbage refuse and manure over a thousand tons a day in New York City alone that clogged streets and overwhelmed the senses of residents In his landmark study Garbage in the Cities Martin Melosi offered the first history of efforts begun in the Progressive Era to clean up this mess Since it was first published Garbage in the Cities has remained one of the best historical treatments of the subject This thoroughly revised and updated edition includes two new chapters that expand the discussion of developments since World War I It also offers a discussion of the reception of the first edition and an examination of the ways solid waste management has become more federally regulated in the last quarter of the twentieth century Melosi traces the rise of sanitation engineering accurately describes the scope and changing nature of the refuse problem in U S cities reveals the sometimes hidden connections between industrialization and pollution and discusses the social agendas behind many early cleanliness programs Absolutely essential reading for historians policy analysts and sociologists Garbage in the Cities offers a vibrant and insightful analysis of this fascinating topic Municipal Index ,1924
