The Search for Community in Modern America E. Digby Baltzell, 1968      Community Search over Big Graphs Xin Huang, Laks V.S. Lakshmanan, Jianliang Xu, 2022-05-31 Communities serve as basic structural building blocks for understanding the organization of many real world networks including social biological collaboration and communication networks Recently community search over graphs has attracted significantly increasing attention from small simple and static graphs to big evolving attributed and location based graphs In this book we first review the basic concepts of networks communities and various kinds of dense subgraph models We then survey the state of the art in community search techniques on various kinds of networks across different application areas Specifically we discuss cohesive community search attributed community search social circle discovery and geo social group search We highlight the challenges posed by different community search problems We present their motivations principles methodologies algorithms and applications and provide a comprehensive comparison of the existing techniques This book finally concludes by listing publicly available real world datasets and useful tools for facilitating further research and by offering further readings and future directions of research in this important and growing area      Urban Recycling and the Search for Sustainable Community Development Adam S. Weinberg, David N. Pellow, Allan Schnaiberg, 2000-07-24 More Americans recycle than vote And most do so to improve their communities and the environment But do recycling programs advance social economic and environmental goals To answer this three sociologists with expertise in urban and environmental planning have conducted the first major study of urban recycling They compare four types of programs in the Chicago metropolitan area a community based drop off center a municipal curbside program a recycling industrial park and a linkage program Their conclusion admirably elaborated is that recycling can realize sustainable community development but that current programs achieve few benefits for the communities in which they are located The authors discover that the history of recycling mirrors many other urban reforms What began in the 1960s as a sustainable community enterprise has become a commodity based profit driven industry Large private firms using public dollars have chased out smaller nonprofit and family owned efforts Perhaps most troubling is that this process was not born of economic necessity Rather as the authors show socially oriented programs are actually more viable than profit focused systems This finding raises unsettling questions about the prospects for any sort of sustainable local development in the globalizing economy Based on a decade of research this is the first book to fully explore the range of impacts that recycling generates in our communities It presents recycling as a tantalizing case study of the promises and pitfalls of community development It also serves as a rich account of how the state and private interests linked to the global economy alter the terrain of local neighborhoods      Community Development and Public Administration Theory Ashley E. Nickels, Jason D. Rivera, 2018-04-17 The concept of community development is often misunderstood holding different meanings across different academic disciplines Moreover the concept of community development has been historically abstracted not only in the way the concept has been conceptualized in academic studies but also by the way in which practitioners use the term in the vernacular Departing from traditional definitions of community development this volume applies the New Public Service NPS perspective of Public Administration to community development to illustrate how public administrators and public managers can engage in community development planning and implementation that results in more equitable and sustainable long term outcomes This book will be of interest to practitioners and researchers in public administration management public administration theory community development economic development urban sociology urban politics and urban planning      Enterprise Search Martin White, 2013 Is your organization rapidly accumulating more information than you know how to manage This book helps you create an enterprise search solution based on more than just technology Author Martin White shows you how to plan and implement a managed search environment that meets the needs of your business and your employees Learn why it's vital to have a dedicated staff manage your search technology and support your users In one survey 93% of executives said their organization is losing revenue because they're not fully able to use the information they collect With this book business managers IT managers and information professionals can maximize the value of corporate information and data assets Use 12 critical factors to gauge your organization's search needs Learn how to make a business case for search Research your user requirements and evaluate your current search solution Create a support team with technical skills and organizational knowledge to manage your solution Set quality guidelines for organizational content and metadata Get an overview of open source and commercial search technology Choose an application based on your requirements not for its features Make mobile and location independent search part of your solution      Searching Skills Toolkit Caroline De Brún, Nicola Pearce-Smith, 2011-09-23 The distinguishing feature of this pocket sized searching skills book like all the Toolkit series titles is its user friendliness The guiding principle is that readers do not want to become librarians but they are faced with practical difficulties when searching for evidence such as lack of skills lack of time and information overload They need to learn simple search skills and be directed towards the right resources to find the best evidence to support their decision making A user friendly Hands On guide to literature searching which is an essential skill for all involved in health care research and development researchers and students from all disciplines      Searching Merrelyn Emery, 1999-12-15 Searching explains how to make the fundamental cultural change required for a desirable sustainable future It describes the two stage model of open systems social science in action and covers two major methods the Search Conference for strategic planning and community development and the Participative Design Workshop for the genotypical design and redesign of organizational structures The result of nearly 50 years of integrated conceptual and practical development Searching shows that by replacing 200 years of mechanistic assumptions with concepts and principles which accurately capture human and social realities these methods generate intrinsic motivation and release human potentials for change Starting with the building blocks of this internally consistent theoretical framework Part I explains the interrelations and shows how the power of the methods for achieving this cultural change is generated Part II of the book describes the methods and illustrates their flexibility by discussing some of their most common variations
