Seaside Debates A Critique Of The New Urbanism:

The Seaside Debates Seaside Institute, 2002 This series of presentations and critiques which took place at the Seaside Institute in Seaside Florida highlights the major issues of New Urbanism as they were discussed by the key players in the field such as Andres Duany Elizabeth Plater Zyberk Stefanos Polyzoides and Daniel Solomon as well as such academic critics as Witold Rybczynski Colin Rowe Judith DiMaio Alex Krieger Alan Plattus and others Issues of growth management promotion of civic life land conservation and rational transportation were discussed focusing on eight U S and Canadian cities as examples The Seaside Debates Todd W. Bressi, 2002

Seaside Steven Brooke, 2005-01-01 This completely revised second edition of Seaside is the guide to the famous Florida resort town complete with maps walking tours updated addresses aerial views and a look inside some of Seaside's most beautifully decorated homes For the first time a complete list of every town structure and its designer is included An Analysis of Jane Jacobs's The Death and Life of Great American Cities Martin Fuller, Ryan Moore, 2017-07-05

Despite having no formal training in urban planning Jane Jacobs deftly explores the strengths and weaknesses of policy arguments put forward by American urban planners in the era after World War II They believed that the efficient movement of cars was of more value in the development of US cities than the everyday lives of the people living there By carefully examining their relevance in her 1961 book The Death and Life of Great American Cities Jacobs dismantles these arguments by highlighting their shortsightedness She evaluates the information to hand and comes to a very different conclusion that urban planners ruin great cities because they don't understand that it is a city's social interaction that makes it great Proposals and policies that are drawn from planning theory do not consider the social dynamics of city life They are in thrall to futuristic fantasies of a modern way of living that bears no relation to reality or to the desires of real people living in real spaces Professionals lobby for separation and standardization splitting commercial residential industrial and cultural spaces But a truly visionary approach to urban planning should incorporate spaces with mixed uses together with short walkable blocks large concentrations of people and a mix of new and old buildings This creates true urban vitality

The Landscape of Reform Ben A. Minter, 2006 In The Landscape of Reform Ben Minter offers a fresh and provocative reading of the intellectual foundations of American environmentalism focusing on the work and legacy of four important conservation and planning thinkers in the first half of the twentieth century Liberty Hyde Bailey a forgotten figure in the Progressive conservation movement urban and regional planning theorist Lewis Mumford Benton MacKaye the forester and conservationist who proposed the Appalachian Trail in the 1920s and Aldo Leopold author of the environmentalist classic A Sand County Almanac Minter argues that these writers blazed a significant third way in environmental ethics and practice a more pragmatic approach that offers a counterpoint to the anthropocentrism versus ecocentrism use versus preservation narrative that has long dominated discussions of the development of American environmental thought Minter shows that the environmentalism of Bailey Mumford MacKaye and Leopold was also part of a larger moral and political program one that included efforts to revitalize democratic citizenship conserve regional culture and community identity and reclaim a broader understanding of the public interest that went beyond economics and materialism Their environmental thought was an attempt to critique and at the same time reform American society and political culture Minter explores the work of these four environmental reformers and considers two present day manifestations of an environmental third way Natural Systems Agriculture an alternative to chemical and energy intensive industrial agriculture and New Urbanism an attempt to combat the negative effects of suburban sprawl By rediscovering the pragmatic roots of American environmentalism writes Minter we can help bring about a new civic minded environmentalism today

Goodman, 2011-03-16 A sharp and lively text that covers issues in depth but not to the point that they become inaccessible to beginning students. An Introduction to Architectural Theory is the first narrative history of this period, charting the veritable revolution in architectural thinking that has taken place as well as the implications of this intellectual upheaval. The first comprehensive and critical history of architectural theory over the last fifty years, surveys the intellectual history of architecture since 1968, including criticisms of high modernism, the rise of postmodern and poststructural theory, critical regionalism and tectonics. Offers a comprehensive overview of the significant changes that architectural thinking has undergone in the past fifteen years. Includes an analysis of where architecture stands and where it will likely move in the coming years.      Architectural Record, 2001      Alternative Pathways in Science and Industry David J. Hess, 2007-03-16

In Alternative Pathways in Science and Industry, David Hess examines how social movements and other forms of activism affect innovation in science, technology and industry. Synthesizing and extending work in social studies of science and technology, social movements and globalization, Hess explores the interaction of grassroots environmental action and mainstream industry and offers a conceptual framework for understanding it. Hess proposes a theory of scientific and technological change that considers the roles that both industry and grassroots consumers play in setting the research agenda in science and technology, and he identifies alternative pathways by which social movements can influence scientific and technological innovation. He analyzes four of these pathways: industrial opposition movements organized against targeted technologies as in the campaign against nuclear energy technology; and product-oriented movements which press for alternatives as does the organic food movement; localism which promotes local ownership as in buy local campaigns; and access pathways which support a more equitable distribution of resources. Within each pathway, Hess examines reforms in five different areas: agriculture, energy, waste and manufacturing, infrastructure and finance. The book's theoretical argument and empirical evidence demonstrate the complex pattern of incorporation of grassroots innovations and transformation of alternative ownership structures and the alternative products themselves that has characterized the relationship of industry and activism. Hess's analysis of alternative pathways to change suggests ways economic organizations could shift to a more just and sustainable course in the twenty-first century.
