white settlement challenged these labor practices Ojibwe people negotiated treaties that protected their rights to make a living by hunting fishing and berrying and through work in the fur trade the lumber industry and tourism Norrgard shows how the tribe strategically used treaty rights claims over time to uphold its right to work and to maintain the rhythm and texture of traditional Ojibwe life Drawing on a wide range of sources including New Deal era interviews with Ojibwe people Norrgard demonstrates that while American expansion curtailed the Ojibwes land base and sovereignty the tribe nevertheless used treaty protected labor to sustain its lifeways and meet economic and political needs a process of self determination that continues today
