Canadian Women Shaping Diasporic Religious Identities Becky R. Lee,Terry Tak-ling Woo,2016-01-01 This collection of essays explores how women from a variety of religious and cultural communities have contributed to the richly textured pluralistic society of Canada Focusing on women s religiosity it examines the ways in which they have carried and conserved and brought forward and transformed their cultures old and new in modern Canada Each essay explores the ways in which the religiosities of women serve as locations for both the assertion and the refashioning of individual and communal identity in transcultural contexts Three shared assumptions guide these essays religion plays a dynamic role in the shaping and reshaping of social cultures women are active participants in their transmission and their transformation and a focus on women s activities within their religious traditions often informal and unofficial provides new perspectives on the intersection of religion gender and transnationalism Since the first European migrations Canada has been shaped by immigrant communities as they negotiated the tension between preserving their religious and cultural traditions and embracing the new opportunities in their adopted homeland Viewing those interactions through the lens of women's religiosity the essays in this collection model an innovative approach and provide new perspectives for students and researchers of Canadian Studies Religious Studies and Women's Studies

Shaping Identity in Medieval French Literature Adrian P. Tudor, Kristin L. Burr, 2019-08-05 This collection of essays argues that literary identity can be created and re created adopted refused imposed and self imposed and that one may exist within a group while remaining foreign to it Contributors examine this theme through a wide range of lenses from marginal characters to gender to questions of voice and naming in works that span genres and historical periods Christianity and Cultures David Emmanuel Singh, Bernard C. Farr, 2008-11-01 This volume on Christianity and Cultures is a way of marking an important milestone in the relatively short story of the Oxford Centre for Mission Studies OCMS The papers here have been exclusively sourced from Transformation a quarterly journal of OCMS and seek to provide a tripartite view of Christianity's engagement with cultures by focusing on the question how is Christian thinking forming or reforming through its interaction with the varied contexts it encounters As Christianity has taken and still takes shape in multiple contexts it naturally results in a variety of expressions and emphases One can gain an appreciation of these by studying different strands of theological missiological thinking socio political engagements and forms of family relationships in interaction with the host cultures
