Hermeneutic Phenomenological Study of Philanthropic Leadership Lisa Barrow, 2004 This hermeneutic phenomenological study explored leadership by means of accessing the lived experiences of leaders perceived as being philanthropic in bureaucratic mechanistic organizations in Canada and the United States. Philanthropic leaders display the following characteristics: a love, b compassion, c caring, d altruism and e perceptive listening. The selection process relied on the criterion and snowball sampling techniques as means for choosing thirty participants for the in-depth interviews. After the transcription of the interviews, an analysis of the data occurred using Atlas.ti, a software program. Three themes emerged. These themes centered on the leaders' mindsets, leadership tools and the emergence of the philanthropic leadership phenomenon. The implication was that employees responded positively to attitudes and behaviors of leaders who acknowledged and emphasized the value of employees.

Choosing Partnership, Sharing Ministry Marcia Barnes Bailey, 2007-06-20

Like many clergy, Marcia Barnes Bailey began her work as an ordained leader with a vision of the pastor as leader extraordinaire empowered by education, authority, position and resources. She soon found herself thinking, "There has to be another way." In this book, Bailey invites pastors and congregations to a new understanding of ministry leadership and the church that challenges hierarchy by fully sharing responsibilities, risks and rewards in mutual ministry. This model took shape over 10 years as Bailey's pastoral colleague, Marcus Pomeroy, and the congregation they served began writing their own definition of partnership: creating their own map, trusting their own instincts, making their own mistakes. For Bailey, this kind of partnership began when she discovered the courage to listen to herself and to the Spirit for the inklings of another way to incarnate Jesus's example: a ministry that was widely inclusive, delegated power, shared authority and thrived with the multiplication of gifts. Partnership invites us on a journey that can transform us as leaders, as human beings and as the church. It is challenging and exciting, and it requires hard work. It is also energizing, engaging and empowering. Partnership unleashes the Spirit to create a new vision and reality among us, moving us one step closer to living into God's reign.
