Lawrence Carl Van Vechten and other expatriates of New York City Fleeing urban ugliness they moved west between 1917 and 1929 to join the community that art patron Mabel Dodge created in her Taos salon and to draw inspiration from New Mexico's mountain desert and primitive peoples As they settled their quest for the primitive forged a link between authentic places and those who called them home In this first book to consider Dodge and her visitors from a New Mexican perspective Flannery Burke shows how these cultural mavens drew on modernist concepts of primitivism to construct their personal visions and cultural agendas In each chapter she presents a place as it took shape for a different individual within Dodge's orbit From this kaleidoscope of places emerges a vision of what place meant to modernist artists as well as a narrative of what happened in the real place of New Mexico when visitors decided it was where they belonged Expanding the picture of early American modernism beyond New York's dominance she shows that these newcomers believed Taos was the place they had set out to find and that when Taos failed to meet their expectations they changed Taos Throughout Burke examines the ways notions of primitivism unfolded as Dodge's salon attracted artists of varying ethnicities and the ways that patronage was perceived by African American writers seeking publication Anglos seeking authentic material Native American artists seeking patronage or Nuevomexicanos simply seeking respect She considers the notion of competitive primitivism especially regarding Carl Van Vechten and offers nuanced analyses of divisions within northern New Mexico's arts communities over land issues and of the ways in which Pueblo Indians spoke on their own behalf Burke's book offers a portrait of a place as it took shape both aesthetically in the imaginations of Dodge's visitors and materially in the lives of everyday New Mexicans It clearly shows that no people or places stand outside the modern world and that when we pretend otherwise those people and places inevitably suffer Space, Site, Intervention Erika Suderburg, 2000 From Ferdinand Cheval's Palais Ideal 1879-1905 and Simon Rodia's Watts Towers 1921-1954 to Ant Farm's Cadillac Ranch 1974 and Richard Serra's Tilted Arc 1981 installation art has continually crossed boundaries encompassing sculpture architecture performance and visual art Although unique in its power to transform both the site in which a work is constructed and the viewer's experience of being in a place installation art has not received the critical attention accorded other art forms In Space Site Intervention some of today's most prominent art critics curators and artists view installation art as a diverse multifaceted and international art form that challenges institutional assumptions and narrow conceptual frameworks The contributors discuss installation in relation to the genealogy of modern art community and corporate space multimedia cyberspace public and private ritual the gallery and the museum public and private patronage and political action This ambitious volume focuses on issues of class sexuality cultural identity race and gender and highlights a wide range of artists whose work is often marginalized by mainstream art history and criticism Together the essays in Space Site Intervention investigate how installation resonates within modern culture and society as well as its ongoing influence on contemporary visual culture

Bruce Nauman Bruce Nauman, 2002-05-29 From the beginning I was trying to see if I could make art that did that Art that was just there all at once Like getting hit in the face with a baseball bat Or better yet like getting hit in the back of the neck You never see it coming it just knocks you down I like that idea very much the kind of intensity that doesn't give you any trace of whether you're going to like it or not Bruce Nauman Bruce Nauman's art is about heightened awareness awareness of spaces we usually don't notice the one under the chair out of which he made a sculpture and sounds we don't listen for the one in the coffin awareness of emotions we suppress or dread It's hard to feel indifferent to work like his Michael Kimmelman New York Times One of America's most important artists Bruce Nauman has worked in a dazzling variety of media since the mid 1960s sculpture photography performance installation sound holography film and video What has been a constant throughout his career however is his persistence in exploring both art as an investigation of the self and the power of language to define that self The latest volume in the acclaimed Art Performance series is the first book to combine the key critical writings on Nauman with the artist's own writings and interviews with him as well as images of his work Bruce Nauman offers a multifaceted portrait of an artist whose determination to experiment with style and form has created a body of work as eclectic and perhaps more influential than that of any other living American artist Taking place Erin Silver, 2023-02-07 Taking place examines feminist and queer alternative art spaces across Canada and the United States from the late 1960s to the present It looks at how queer and feminist artists working in the present day engage with respond to and challenge the institutions they have inherited Through a series of regional case studies the book interrogates different understandings of alternative space and the possibilities the term affords for queer and feminist artistic imaginaries After the Revolution Eleanor Heartney, Helaine Posner, Nancy Princenthal, Sue Scott, 2013-11-04 Why Have There Been No Great Women Artists asked the prominent art historian Linda Nochlin in a provocative 1971 essay Today her insightful critique serves as a benchmark against which the progress of women artists may be measured In this book four prominent critics and curators describe the impact of women artists on contemporary art since the advent of the feminist movement Spaces and Identities in Border Regions Christian Wille, Rachel Reckinger, Sonja Kmec, Markus Hesse, 2015-11-17 Spatial and identity research operates with differentiations and relations These are particularly useful heuristic tools when examining border regions where social and geopolitical demarcations diverge Applying this approach the authors of this volume investigate spatial and identity constructions in cross border contexts as they appear in everyday institutional and media practices The results are discussed with a keen eye for obliquely aligned spaces and identities and relinked to governmental issues of normalization and subjectivation The studies base upon empirical surveys conducted in Germany France Belgium and Luxembourg Narratives Unfolding Martha Langford, 2017-07-18 Somewhere between global and local the nation still lingers as a concept National art histories continue to be written some for the first time while innovative methods and practices redraw the boundaries of these imagined communities Narratives Unfolding considers the mobility of ideas transnationalism and entangled histories in essays that define new ways to see national art in ever changing nations Examining works that were designed to reclaim or rethink issues of territory and dispossession home and exile contributors
