in the field The Reformation of Prayer among Sixteenth-Century Lutherans Mary Jane Haemig, 2025-03-22 In sixteenth century Germany Martin Luther and his followers engaged in a thorough reform of beliefs and practices related to prayer a reform rooted in Luther's theological insights Rejecting medieval beliefs that saw prayer as a good work Luther and his followers saw prayer as a human response to God's command to pray and promise to hear It was a good work done freely not to earn salvation but rather to converse with God Luther and his followers taught prayer in many different ways They used catechisms and catechesis to teach the basics of Christian belief including the Lord's Prayer They emphasized understanding the petitions of prayer not just reciting words. They encouraged the use of the psalms as prayers and produced literature designed to make the psalms accessible and understandable They published prayerbooks to instruct in prayer and offer prayers for a variety of vocations and situations Lutheran sermons taught prayer both on particular occasions and on many Sundays of the church year Worship taught prayer and provided models for prayer Literature for those suffering sickness death plaque childbirth and war taught prayer as part of its effort to console Literature for theological students and manuals designed to help pastors in their ministries contained instruction in prayer highlighting the importance of prayer in the life and ministry of the pastor and helping them to teach prayer This book gives a comprehensive overview of the theological underpinnings for prayer as well as the strategies and literature used by Luther and his followers as they taught The Path of Christianity John Anthony McGuckin, 2017-05-16 John McGuckin a world renowned prayer to all people expert on ancient Christianity has synthesized a lifetime of work to produce the most comprehensive and accessible history of the first millennium of the Christian church This readable account explores the history in chronological order and then examines the same period thematically looking at issues like women war and the Bible Marrying Jesus in Medieval and Early Modern Northern Europe Rabia Gregory, 2016-09-17 The first full length study of the notion of marriage to Jesus in late medieval and early modern popular culture this book treats the transmission and transformation of ideas about this concept as a case study in the formation of religious belief and popular culture Marrying Jesus in Medieval and Early Modern Northern Europe provides a history of the dispersion of theology about the bride of Christ in the period between the twelfth and seventeenth centuries and explains how this metaphor initially devised for a religious elite became integral to the laity s pursuit of salvation Unlike recent publications on the bride of Christ which explore the gendering of sanctity or the poetics of religious eroticism this is a study of popular religion told through devotional media and other technologies of salvation Marrying Jesus argues against the heteronormative interpretation that brides of Christ should be female by reconstructing the cultural production of brides of Christ in late medieval Europe A central assertion of this book is that by the fourteenth century worldly sexually active brides of Christ both male and female were no longer aberrations Analyzing understudied vernacular sources from the late medieval period including sermons early printed books spiritual diaries letters songs and hagiographies Rabia Gregory shows how marrying Jesus was central to late medieval lay piety and how the chaste bride of

Peacock, Bruno De Nicola, 2016-03-09 Islam and Christianity in Medieval Anatolia offers a comparative approach to understanding the spread of Islam and Muslim culture in medieval Anatolia It aims to reassess work in the field since the 1971 classic by Speros Vryonis The Decline of Hellenism in Asia Minor and the Process of Islamization which treats the process of transformation from a Byzantinist perspective Since then research has offered insights into individual aspects of Christian Muslim relations but no overview has appeared Moreover very few scholars of Islamic studies have examined the problem meaning evidence in Arabic Persian and Turkish has been somewhat neglected at the expense of Christian sources and too little attention has been given to material culture The essays in this volume examine the interaction between Christianity and Islam in medieval Anatolia through three distinct angles opening with a substantial introduction by the editors to explain both the research background and the historical problem making the work accessible to scholars from other fields The first group of essays examines the Christian experience of living under Muslim rule comparing their experiences in several of the major Islamic states of Anatolia between the eleventh and fifteenth centuries especially the Seljuks and the Ottomans The second set of essays examines encounters between Christianity and Islam in art and intellectual life They highlight the ways in which some traditions were shared across confessional divides suggesting the existence of a common artistic and hence cultural vocabulary The final section focusses on the process of Islamisation above all as seen from the Arabic Persian and Turkish textual evidence with special attention to the role of Sufism the Art of Prayer Rachel Fulton Brown, 2017-11-21 Would you like to learn to pray like a medieval Christian In Mary and the Art of Prayer Rachel Fulton Brown traces the history of the medieval practice of praising Mary through the complex of prayers known as the Hours of the Virgin More than just a work of comprehensive historical scholarship the book asks readers to immerse themselves in the experience of believing in and praying to Mary Mary and the Art of Prayer crosses the boundaries that modern scholars typically place between observation and experience between the world of provable facts and the world of imagination suggesting what it would have been like for medieval Christians to encounter Mary in prayer Mary and the Art of Prayer opens with a history of the devotion of the Hours or Little Office of the Virgin It then guides readers in the practice of saying this Office including its invitatory Ave Maria antiphons psalms lessons and prayers The book works on several levels at once It provides a new methodology for thinking about devotion and prayer a new appreciation of the scope of and audience for the Hours of the Virgin a new understanding of how Mary functions theologically and devotionally and a new reading of sources not previously taken into account A courageous and moving work it will transform our ideas of what scholarship is and what it can accomplish The Road to Emmaus: A Sculptor's Journey through Time Rodney Munday, 2024-08-30 The sculptor Rodney Munday examines the impact of the art works that have influenced his thinking and the evolution of his artistic style on his Christian faith as well as the way in which his faith has shaped his own sculpture This is an examination of the ways in which the context and reception of religious art through the centuries poses questions about Christianity and how both individuals and the establishment respond to new works of art In this book we journey with him along his personal road to Emmaus recounted with engaging warmth and honesty Inward Baptism Baird Tipson,2020 Conversion in late Medieval Christianity Luther insists on faith Can one turn to one s outward baptism for assurance of salvation the Colloquy at Montb liard The conscience religion of William Perkins Grace resolved into morality The outbreak of evangelicalism Jewish & Christian Mysticism Dan Cohn-Sherbok,Lavinia Cohn-Sherbok,1994

Tracing the Trails in the Medieval World Albrecht Classen, 2020-10-11 Every human being knows that we are walking through life following trails whether we are aware of them or not Medieval poets from the anonymous composer of Beowulf to Marie de France Hartmann von Aue Gottfried von Strassburg and Guillaume de Lorris to Petrarch and Heinrich Kaufringer predicated their works on the notion of the trail and elaborated on its epistemological function. We can grasp here an essential concept that determines much of medieval and early modern European literature and philosophy addressing the direction which all protagonists pursue as powerfully illustrated also by the anonymous poets of Herzog Ernst and Sir Gawain and the Green Knight Dante's Divina Commedia in fact proves to be one of the most explicit poetic manifestations of the fundamental idea of the trail but we find strong parallels also in powerful contemporary works such as Guillaume de
