The Information Bomb Paul Virilio, 2020-05-05 Civilization or the militarization of science With this typically hyperbolic and provocative question as a starting point Paul Virilio explores the dominion of techno science cyberwar and the new information technologies over our lives and deaths After the era of the atomic bomb Virilio posits an era of genetic and information bombs which replace the apocalyptic bang of nuclear death with the whimper of a subliminally reinforced eugenics We are entering the age of euthanasia These exhilarating bulletins from the information war extend the range of Virilio's work The Information Bomb spans everything from Fukuyama to Larry Flynt the Sensation exhibition of New British Art to space travel all seen through the optic of Virilio's trenchant and committed theoretical position Virilio and Visual Culture John Armitage,2013-01-15 The first genuine appraisal of Virilio's contribution to contemporary art photography film television and more This collection of 13 original writings including a newly translated piece by Virilio himself is indispensable reading for all students and researchers of contemporary visual culture Paul Virilio is one of the leading and most challenging critics of art and technology of the present period Re conceptualising the most enduring philosophical conventions on everything from technology and photography to literature anthropology cultural and media studies through his own original theories and arguments Virilio's work has produced substantial debate compelling readers to ask if his criticism is out of touch or out in front of traditional perspectives Paul Virilio John Armitage,2000-11-13 Paul Virilio is one of the most significant and stimulating French cultural theorists writing today Increasingly hailed as the archaeologist of the future Virilio is noted for his proclamation that the logic of ever increasing acceleration lies at the heart of the organization and transformation of the contemporary world The first book to afford a properly critical evaluation of Virilio's cultural theory it includes an interview with Virilio a recently translated example of his work and a select bibliography of his writings The commissioned contributions by leading cultural and social theorists examine Virilio's work from his early speculations on military and urban space to his current writings on dromology politics ne Paul Virilio John Armitage,1999 Paul Virilio is a critical but balanced introduction to the main themes and arguments of the French cultural theorist's work The authors explain the context of his work which includes cyberspace and virtual reality Strategy of Deception Paul Virilio,2020-05-05 Written with his characteristic flair Virilio's latest book is a trenchant denunciation of the Kosovo war in which he successfully unites theory with a riveting study of the conflict Tearing aside the veil of hypocrisy in which the USA and its allies wrapped the war Virilio demonstrates that the nature of the bombing was set by strategic rather than ethical considerations Beneath the humanitarian rhetoric Virilio sees a sinister innovation in the methods of waging war territorial space is being replaced by orbital space in which a system of global telesurveillance is linked to the destructive power of bombers and missiles Governments the military and the media are becoming part of a seamless and self justifying process linked by new information and arms technologies Passionate and political Strategy of Deception is a vital examination not only of the war in Yugoslavia but also what Virilio calls our fin de siècle infantilization in which the reality of battle is reduced to flickering images on a screen The Futurism of the Instant Paul Virilio,2010-12 With around 645 million people expected to be displaced by wars and other catastrophes by 2050 Virilio begins The Futurism of the Instant by looking at the future of human settlement and migration through the evolution of the city What he finds is an accelerating exodus from the city as we have known it an exodus that reverses the desertion of the countryside for the city in the past This exodus creates a circulating city of transients on the move that will remove us further and further from our native lands en route to the ultimate exile beyond planet Earth itself something the world's mad scientists have already been planning for some time Exploring the shifts in scale involved in such population flows and the fraught and complex relationship between sedentary settlement and globalization Virilio considers what the resultant loss of identity might mean not only in terms of the exhaustion of biodiversity but also in terms of the catastrophic elimination of temporal diversity with the compression and fragmentation of time enabled by the nanotechnologies in an ever increasing acceleration of reality This previously unimaginable prospect is brought closer by the accident of an instant that wipes out all distinction between past present and future within the black hole of globalized interconnectivity
