Technology and animals often serve as the boundaries by which we define the human In this issue contributors explore these categories as necessary supplements or as porous membranes which disturb the scaffolding of how the human is constructed A lingering question throughout is whether we have ever been human or if such a category is a non localizable ideal or perhaps a misnomer In this collection of essays internationally known theorists muddle the categorical boundaries such that animals and technologies become necessary components rather than limits for what it means to be human They examine a range of subjects including apophatic animality critical media objects to think with biosemiotic insect resonances the monstrous and horrific which dislodges our cultural animals and the problem of thinking of animality as stupidity Novels films digital objects scientific laboratories philosophical texts animals on the road and in the fields serve as sites for inquiry The result of these investigations is the spectral possibility that we are not the humans we make ourselves out to be This book was originally published as a special issue of Angelaki Phases of the Moon Craig Ian Mann, 2020-09-21 Provides the first academic monograph dedicated to developing a cultural understanding of the werewolf film

Allegories of Telling Lynn Wells, 2021-11-22 Allegories of Telling Self Referential Narrative in Contemporary British Fiction has as its founding premise Ross Chambers's notion that one of the important powers of fiction is its power to theorize the act of storytelling in and through the act of storytelling In this critical study Lynn Wells presents detailed readings of novels by five prominent British authors John Fowles Angela Carter Graham Swift A S Byatt and Salman Rushdie with an emphasis on how the texts self referential aspects illuminate the acts of reading and writing fiction in contemporary Britain and by extension around the world The book begins by situating contemporary British fiction historically as the product of an aesthetics of compromise arising from the realism versus experimentalism debate that consumed the English literary establishment during the 1960s In her discussion of the texts Lynn Wells then draws on a wide range of theoretical approaches from narrative and psychoanalytic theory to existentialist philosophy and the historiographic ideas of thinkers such as Walter Benjamin Michel Foucault and Giambattista Vico These original readings challenge superficial postmodern interpretations of contemporary British fiction as pessimistically anti historical and reassert the value of readerly engagement and narrative reconstruction of the past
