Redemption Ark Alastair Reynolds, 2004-05-25 Alastair Reynolds pushes the boundaries of science fiction and confirms his place among the leaders of the hard science space opera renaissance Publishers Weekly in this novel in his Revelation Space universe Late in the twenty sixth century the human race has advanced enough to accidentally trigger the Inhibitors alien killing machines designed to detect intelligent life and destroy it The only hope for humanity lies in the recovery of a secret cache of doomsday weapons and a renegade named Clavain who is determined to find them But other factions want the weapons for their own purposes and the weapons themselves have another agenda altogether

Absolution Gap Alastair Reynolds, 2005 In the epic conclusion of the Revelation Space trilogy veteran Clavain and his desperate companions seek refuge on a remote moon light years away from the ancient killing machines wreaking havoc on the universe in an attempt to destroy all human life only to discover that to defeat this horrific enemy they must forge an uneasy alliance with an even more deadly ally Reprint

Space in America Klaus Benesch, Kerstin Schmidt, 2005 America's sense of space has always been tied to what Hayden White called the narrativization of real events If the awe inspiring manifestations of nature in America Niagara Falls Virginia's Natural Bridge the Grand Canyon etc were often used as a foil for projecting utopian visions and idealizations of the nation's exceptional place among the nations of the world the rapid technological progress and its concomitant appropriation of natural spaces served equally well as David Nye argues to promote the dominant cultural idiom of exploration and conquest From the beginning American attitudes towards space were thus utterly contradictory if not paradoxical a paradox that scholars tried to capture in such hybrid concepts as the middle landscape Leo Marx an engineered New Earth Cecelia Tichi or the technological sublime David Nye Not only was America's concept of space paradoxical it has always also been a contested terrain a site of continuous social and cultural conflict Many foundational issues in American history the dislocation of Native and African Americans the geo political implications of nation building immigration and transmigration the increasing division and clustering of contemporary American society etc involve differing ideals and notions of space Quite literally space and its various ideological appropriations formed the arena where America's search for identity national political cultural has been staged If American democracy as Frederick Jackson Turner claimed is born of free land then its history may well be defined as the history of the fierce struggles to gain and maintain power over both the geographical social and political spaces of America and its concomitant narratives The number and range of topics interests and critical approaches of the essays gathered here open up exciting new avenues of inquiry into the tangled contentious relations of space in America Topics include Theories of Space Landscape Nature Technoscape Architecture Urban Utopia Literature Performance Film Visual Arts
