Rêves de papier Alain Fleig, 1997 Photographers Peter E. Palmquist, 2000 A Victorian Traveler in the Middle East Nancy Micklewright, 2017-07-05

Juxtaposing the albums of Lady Brassey an overlooked figure among Victorian women travelers with Brassey s travel books Nancy Micklewright takes advantage of a unique opportunity to examine the role of photography in the 1870s and 1880s in constructing ideas about place and empire This study draws on a range of source material to investigate aspects of the Brassey collection The book begins with an overview of Lady Brassey s life and projects as well as an examination of issues relevant to subsequent discussions of the travel literature the photographs and the albums in which the photographs are assembled Lady Brassey is next considered as a traveler and public figure and the author gives an overview of Brassey s travel literature placing her in her social and political context Micklewright then considers the seventy volumes of photographs which comprise the Brassey album collection taking an especially close look at the eight albums devoted to the Middle East Analyzing the specific contents and structure of the albums and the interplay of text and image within she explores how the Brasseys constructed their presentation of the region While confirming some earlier work about constructions of the Orient by the British during the time this book offers a much more detailed and nuanced understanding of how photographic and literary constructions were related to individual experience and identity within a larger British identity The first appendix explores the illustrative relationship between the photograph albums and Lady Brassey s travel books yielding an understanding of the processes involved in transferring the photographic image to a printed one at a particular moment in the development of book illustration A second appendix lists the contents and named photographers of all seventy albums in the Brassey collection All in all Micklewright s study makes a significant contribution to our understanding of the complex and unstable socia

Photography, History, Difference Tanya Sheehan, 2014-12-02

Over the past decade historical studies of photography have embraced a variety of cultural and disciplinary approaches to the medium while shedding light on non Western vernacular and other photographic practices outside the Euro American canon Photography History Difference brings together an international group of scholars to reflect on contemporary efforts to take a different approach to photography and its histories What are the benefits and challenges of writing a consolidated global history of photography How do they compare with those of producing more circumscribed regional or thematic histories In what ways does the recent emphasis on geographic and national specificity encourage or exclude attention to other forms of difference such as race class gender and sexuality Do studies of other photographs ultimately necessitate the adoption of nontraditional methodologies or are there contexts in which such differentiation can be intellectually unproductive and politically suspect The contributors to the volume explore these and other questions through historical case studies interpretive surveys of recent historiography criticism and museum practices and creative proposals to rethink the connections between photography history and difference A thought provoking collection of essays that represents new ways of thinking about photography and its histories It will appeal to a broad readership among those interested in art history visual culture media studies and social history Colonialism and Homosexuality Robert Aldrich, 2008-01-28 Colonialism and Homosexuality is a thorough investigation of the connections of homosexuality and imperialism from the late 1800s the era of new imperialism until the era of decolonization Robert Aldrich reconstructs the context of a number of liaisons including those of famous men such as Cecil Rhodes E M Forster or Andr Gide and the historical situations which produced both the Europeans and their non Western lovers Colonial lands which in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century included most of Africa South and Southeast Asia and the islands of the Pacific and Indian Oceans and the Caribbean provided a haven for many Europeans whose sexual inclinations did not fit neatly into the constraints of European society Each of the case studies is a micro history of a particular colonial situation a sexual encounter and its wider implications for cultural and political life Students both of colonial history and of gender and queer studies will find this an informative read

Photographic Travel Books Danièle Méaux, 2017-07-24 Since early in its history photography has been used by a diversity of travellers whose collected photographs have been compiled into albums But Photographic Travel as a genre of art did not appear before the second half of the twentieth century and had a singular fate and fortune in the US as well as in Europe The initial objective of some itinerant photographers is to make a book their shooting practice is conditioned by this objective as well as their travel experience Their books designed as one coherent whole refer to their wandering experience even though their stories are never completely free from fiction In these books their travels are converged and their subjectivity is revealed It is therefore relevant to call such books made of photographs and possibly words about the travel experience Photographic Travel books comparably to Travel books Danièle Méaux has tackled the task of characterizing this genre

Scholars, Scoundrels, and the Sphinx Elaine Altman Evans, 2000 It is a story that is conveyed with ancient artifacts and vintage photographs in a way that makes the early discovery of Egypt come alive William H Peck Curator of Ancient Arts Detroit Institute of Arts The emergence of Egyptology and photography took place together in Egypt in the nineteenth and early twentieth centuries It was a time when the world's most important museum of antiquities was developed when travelers flocked to Egypt when dealers and fakers of antiquities flourished and when pashas khedives and sultans ruled a land of exquisite mosques and spectacular monuments From 1850 to 1930 important Egyptologists and archaeologists energetically excavated and uncovered temples tombs and works of art Which for millennia had been hidden under desert sands At the same time photographers struggled under relentless Egyptian sun to overcome technological and physical difficulties to record the new finds as well as the already known monuments in the Nile Valley Both disciplines promote new knowledge and interest in ancient Egypt This book brings that period to life with a wealth of images of sites along the Nile all selected from the collection of early prints stereoviews and postcards housed at the Frank H McClung Museum at the University of Tennessee Knoxville The prints by pioneer photographers illustrate why people came to Egypt and what it was that seized their imaginations The book also describes more than fifty ancient objects loaned to the museum to complement its exhibition of the photographs These objects were excavated and documented in or near many of the photographed sites at which the earnest Egyptologists and image makers worked Elaine A Evans tells an absorbing story of the exploration and documentation of an endlessly fascinating ancient culture by serious practitioners of two emerging disciplines Egyptology and photography The Author Elaine Altman Evans is curator and adjunct assistant professor in the Frank H McClung Museum at the University of Tennessee Knoxville
