Wheeler, Hector R. Wong, Thomas P. Shanley, 2008-12-03 The field of critical care medicine is in the midst of a dramatic change. Technological and scientific advances during the last decade have resulted in a fundamental change in the way we view disease processes such as sepsis shock acute lung injury and traumatic brain injury Pediatric intensivists have been both witness to and active participants in bringing about these changes As the understanding of the pathogenesis of these diseases reaches the cellular and molecular levels the gap between critical care medicine and molecular biology will disappear It is imperative that all physicians caring for critically ill children in this new era have a thorough understanding of the applicability of molecular biology to the care of these patients at the bedside in order to keep up with the rapidly evolving field of critical care medicine To the same extent the practice of critical care medicine is in the midst of fundamental change In keeping with the Institute of Medicine's report Crossing the Quality Chasm the care of critically ill and injured children needs to be safe evidence based equitable efficient timely and family centered 1 2 In the following pages these changes in our specialty are discussed in greater scope and detail offering the reader fresh insight into not only where we came from but also where we are going as a specialty

Pediatric Critical Care in Resource-Limited Settings Krishan Chugh, Ndidi Musa, Phuc Huu Phan, Srinivas Murthy, Yves Ouellette, 2019-07-11 Millions of children are dying each year with preventable and reversible critical illness including circulatory shock and respiratory failure According to the World Health Organization in 2015 the under five mortality rate in low income countries was 76 deaths per 1000 live births about 11 times the average rate in high income countries 7 deaths per 1000 live births There is limited data about the nature of the delivery of critical care in resource limited regions The care of critically ill children in low resource settings is challenging contributing factors include limitations in the existing infrastructure lack of resources and low numbers of appropriately trained healthcare workers Meeting these challenges requires clinical evidence pertinent to the local settings adequate number of well trained personnel quality improvement activities and the ongoing development of preventative measures In addition approaches to prevent worsening critical illness in at risk hospitalized patients are needed We are presenting 15 state of the art manuscripts from international experts from all settings involved in the care of critically ill children in resource limited settings This collection of manuscripts covers topics including education research clinical experience and infectious diseases We hope that we are providing a window into the future of critical care delivery for all children around the world
