Revolution Postponed Women In Contemporary China:

Revolution Postponed Margery Wolf, 1985-06-01 The Communist revolution promised Chinese women an end to thousands of years of subjugation an equality with men in all matters legal political social and economic This book examines the extent to which this promise has been kept Based on nearly a year of field research and interviews with over 300 women in six widely separated rural and urban areas it gives us a vivid picture of Chinese women today their day to day lives their views of the present and their hopes for the future To date nothing approximating equality has been achieved in working conditions in pay in educational opportunity In the cities and to a lesser extent in the countryside women are better off than in pre revolutionary China But nowhere except in the rhetoric of the regime are they equal to men Nor does the immediate future look much brighter given the continuing social constraints the government s controversial family limitation program and the nature of the new economic policies introduced in 1980 So far as possible the women interviewed are allowed to speak for themselves Some take refuge behind government slogans some are shy or wary but a surprising number are quick to give their own opinions despite an ever present government cadre These opinions combined with the author s astute observations on their local and national context add up to a wholly new perspective on an all too familiar problem

Revolution Postponed Margery Wolf, 1987 Perspectives on Modern China Kenneth Lieberthal, Joyce Kallgren, Roderick MacFarquhar, Frederic Wakeman, 2016-09-16 The conveners the editors of this book of the September 1989 Four Anniversaries China Conference in Annapolis asked the contributors to look back from that point in time to consider four major events in modern Chinese history in the perspective of the rapid changes that were shaping the Chinese society economy polity and sense of place in the world in the 1980s a time when China was making rapid strides toward becoming more integrated with the outside world With contributions by distinguished scholars in the field the four anniversaries considered are the High Qing the May Fourth Movement forty years of communism in China and ten years of the Deng era Corporate Women in Contemporary China Xinyan Peng, 2022-05-02 Based on extensive multi sited ethnographic research this book focuses on the culture of work in today s urban China and on how it has permeated beyond the workplace to shape bodily training family life and kinship and social relationships among white collar women in their twenties and thirties Facing challenges to cope with the increasingly intensified dual burden of work and family white collar women are not turning their backs on their jobs but are turning their bodies and homes into work In an era when the state and society heighten pressure on individual young women s productivity and reproductivity at the same time the book examines how white collar women seek to protect their right to work embody a work ethic and make their reproductive life a productive domain Integrating studies of labor the body gender and kinship this book shows how the ethics and strictly defined discipline of hard work and overtime work are transposed from the office cubicle to the gym and home It thereby demonstrates how the emergence embodiment and extension of a work culture perpetuate the hegemony of the work ethic and how they have exerted a profound impact on women's bodies, selves and lives

Cultural Politics of Gender and Sexuality in Contemporary Asia Tiantian Zheng, 2017-07-31 In globalizing Asia sexual mores and gender roles are in constant flux. How have economic shifts and social changes altered and reconfigured the cultural meanings of gender and sexuality in the region? How have the changing political economy and social milieu influenced and shaped the inner workings and micro politics of family structure, gender relationships, intimate romance, transactional sex and sexual behaviors? This volume offers up to date grounded critical analysis of the complex intersections of gender, sexuality and political economy across a diverse array of Asian societies: China, Japan, Cambodia, Vietnam, India, Pakistan, Hong Kong, Thailand and Taiwan. Based on intense ethnographic fieldwork, the chapters disentangle the ways in which gendered and sexual experiences are impinged upon by state policies, economic realities, cultural ideologies and social hierarchies. Whether highlighting intimate relationships between elite businessmen and their mistresses in China, nightclub performances by Thai men in Bangkok, single women's views of romance, motherhood and marriage in Hong Kong, Shanghai and Tokyo, or male same sex relationships in Pakistan, each chapter centers around the stories of the gendered subjects themselves and how they are shaped by outside forces. Taken together, they provide a provocative entrance into the cultural politics of gender and sexuality in Asia. By foregrounding cross cultural ethnographic research, this volume sheds light on how configurations of gender and sexuality are constituted, negotiated, contested, transformed and at times perpetuated and reproduced in private, intimate experiences. It will be of particular interest to students and scholars in anthropology, sociology, political science and women's and LGBTQ studies.

Footbinding and Women's Labor in Sichuan Hill Gates,2014-12-05 When Chinese women bound their daughters feet many consequences ensued some beyond the imagination of the binders and the bound The most obvious of these consequences was to impress upon a small child's body and mind that girls differed from boys thus reproducing gender hierarchy What is not obvious is why Chinese society should have evolved such a radical method of gender marking Gendering is not simply preparation for reproduction rather its primary significance lies in preparing children for their places in the division of labor of a particular political economy Drawing on extensive fieldwork and interviews with almost 5 000 women this book examines footbinding as Sichuan women remember it from the final years of the empire and the troubled times before the 1949 revolution It focuses on two key questions what motivated parents to maintain this custom and how significant was girls work in China's final pre industrial century In answering these questions Hill Gates shows how footbinding was a form of labor discipline in the first half of the twentieth century in China when it was a key institution in a now much altered political economy Countering the widely held views surrounding the sexual attractiveness of bound feet to Chinese men footbinding as an ethnic boundary marker its role in female hypergamy and its connection to state imperatives this book instead presents a compelling argument that footbinding was in fact a crucial means of disciplining of little girls to lives of early and unremitting labor This vivid and fascinating study will be of huge interest to students and scholars working across a wide range of fields including Chinese history oral history anthropology and gender studies

Gender in Motion Bryna Goodman, Wendy

Larson, 2005-05-05 Governing notions of the social order and interrelated constructions of gender changed radically in the modern era initially with the questioning of the imperial dynastic order and the creation of a Chinese republic in the early twentieth century later with the creation of a Communist government and most recently with China's political and cultural transformations in the post Mao era As ideas and practices of gender have changed the persistence of older rhetorical signs in the interstices of new political visions has complicated the social projects and understandings of modernity especially in terms of the creation of new public spaces new concepts of work and virtue and new configurations of gender among both rural and urban families in China Japan Korea and Taiwan Each chapter presents rich ethnographic data on how filial piety shapes the decisions and daily lives of adult children and their elderly parents The authors ability to speak the local languages and their long term direct contact with the villagers and city dwellers they studied lend an immediacy and authenticity lacking in more abstract treatments of the topic This book is an ideal text for social science and humanities courses on East Asia because it focuses on shared cultural practices while analyzing the ways these practices vary with local circumstances of history economics social organization and demography and with personal circumstances of income gender and family configuration An Introduction to Chinese Culture through the Family Howard Giskin,Bettye S.
