Paul The Man And The Myth:

Paul Calvin J. Roetzel, Winner of Biblical Archaeology Society Award Best New Testament Book We are left to construct a portrait of Paul with only scraps of what was once a large and imposing canvas a small collection of letters and a historical narrative written a generation after his death This reconstruction focuses on important parts of the image that usually fall in the shadows parts dealing with Paul s sexual asceticism his preoccupation with holiness holy Spirit holy community and holy ethos the evolution of his theology and his emergence as a legendary figure Although I have tried to follow the strict rules of historical investigation of necessity much guesswork is involved in any exploration of Paul s life All of these efforts are attempts to deal with the gaps in the text understood in the broadest sense to include not just Paul s written words but also the culture social world and political realities surrounding them From the Introduction Paul Calvin J. Roetzel, Cameron Evan Ferguson, 2023 A revision of the award winning Paul The Man and the Myth This new volume offers thorough editorial updates revised and expanded argument and a new chapter on the earliest interpreters of Paul and their engagement with his legacy including a fresh treatment of Mark as one of the earliest gospel interpreters of Paul if not the earliest Paul, the Man and the Myth Andrew Queen Morton, James McLeman, 1966 Jesus as Man, Myth, and Metaphor Benjamin W. Farley, 2007-09-01 Current New Testament scholarship has done much to advance knowledge of Jesus s authentic words and message The works of Crossan Borg Vermes Mack and many others attest to this movement In this process however the Christ of the Gospels or the so called Christ of faith has been caught in the crosshairs forcing Christianity to reflect anew on the church s interpretation of his life and place in history Has the church s dogma overreached the facts of Jesus s life Farley s book addresses these issues and offers a feasible and illuminating context within which to reexamine Jesus s life and significance for modern humankind His book probes the boundaries of Jesus as a historical person as a man as a figure of mythical proportions and as a metaphor for today s Christian sense of wholeness Along the way Farley incorporates the insights of Carl Jung Joseph Campbell and Paul Tillich to demonstrate the ways that psychology mythology and symbolism contribute to an appreciation of Jesus that moves beyond the debate of Jesus s historical status alone The Theology of Paul the Apostle James D. G. Dunn, 2006-05-17 Using Paul s letter to the Romans as the foundation for his monumental study of Paul s theology James D G Dunn describes Paul s teaching on God sin humankind Christology salvation the church and the nature of the Christian life The Origin of Paul's Gospel Seyoon Kim, 2007-04-01 In answer to Pauline scholarship that tends to explain the origin of Paul s gospel in Palestinian Judaism Hellenistic Judaism mystery cults or Gnosticism Seyoon Kim here argues that the origin lies in Paul s own testimony that he received the gospel from the revelation of Jesus Christ on the Damascus road Only when this insistence of Paul is taken seriously says Kim can we really understand Paul and his theology Kim begins his investigation of Paul s interpretation of the Damascus event by examining Paul s Rabbinic background He then takes a more detailed look at just what occurred on the Damascus road and follows this with a thorough discussion of Paul's gospel, the revelation of its Christology and its soteriology, keeping in mind at all times how it relates to the Damascus event.

Paul and the Revolt Against Him William Cleaver Wilkinson, 1914

Corporate Elements in Pauline Anthropology Sang-Won Son, 2001

In this book, the author claims that modern western biblical scholarship, greatly influenced by extreme individualism, has not paid due attention to the corporate dimension of Pauline anthropology. It investigates the following elements in Paul's letters in the light of his usage and background: 1. Paul's in Christ formula; 2. his comparison and contrast of Adam and Christ; 3. his concept of the church as the body of Christ; and 4. as the temple, house, and building of God; and 5. his understanding of the sexual union as one flesh. The author insists that these elements, closely interwoven in concept and realistic in expression, indicate that Paul understands the risen Christ as a corporate person in whom all believers are included and the church as a corporate solidarity inclusive of both Christ and believers. Underlying this concept is the author's argument that Paul's assumption of the corporate solidarity of human existence views man not only as an individual but also as a corporate person whose existence extends in certain respects beyond his individual being to form corporate solidarity with others. This view of man, both as an individual and corporate person, the author concludes, has significant implications for the rest of Pauline theology, particularly for his Christology, ecclesiology, and eschatology.

Paul as homo novus Eve-Marie Becker, Jacob Mortensen, 2018-04-16

20th-century research in St. Paul is widely impacted by Adolf Deissmann's prominent view on the apostle as a homo novus (1911). But where does this concept originate from, and what does it imply? This collection of articles does not only re-evaluate Deissmann's concept by tracing it back to its historical and socio-political origins in Cicero and exploring how authors from early Imperial Rome perceive and transform the homo novus paradigm by diverse modes and strategies of literary self-fashioning. Scholars ranging from the fields of New Testament Studies, Greek and Latin Philology, Ancient History, Patristics, and Comparative Literature also examine how the Ciceronian paradigm was early on transformed, disseminated, and applied as a literary concept and an authorial topos of self-molding. One of the leading questions throughout the volume thus is: How do authors like Cicero, Horace, Paul, Tacitus, Seneca, Athanasius, and Augustine fashion themselves in accordance to or in difference from the idea of being a new man? It is argued that by means of literary self-configuration, indeed, some of these writers, such as Paul and Augustine, want to appear as new men by either altering traditional social, moral, religious, or political roles or by creating new patterns of social behavior and religious self-understanding.

Saving the Neanderthals Mark S. McLeod-Harrison, 2019-10-29

What happens when the wrench of evolution is dropped into the hopper of Christian theology? Written by a philosopher, Saving the Neanderthals takes evolution as its foil and shows what might have to change in Christian theology in order to make theology compatible with evolution. If the Christian faith is shown consistent with what Mark S. McLeod-Harrison calls hard evolution, then the softer versions will also be compatible. Indeed, that is exactly what the book argues specifically for the Christian doctrines of sin and salvation. These doctrines typically rely on some fairly strong realist version of essentialism, which hard evolution denies, but McLeod

Harrison proposes an approach to sin and salvation that is compatible with the anti essentialist claims of hard evolution

Paul and the Imperial Authorities at Thessalonica and Rome James R. Harrison,2011 James R Harrison investigates the collision between Paul s eschatological gospel and the Julio Claudian conception of rule The ruler s propaganda with its claim about the eternal rule of the imperial house over its subjects embodied in idolatry of power that conflicted with Paul s proclamation of the reign of the risen Son of God over his world This ideological conflict is examined in 1 and 2 Thessalonians and in Romans exploring how Paul s eschatology intersected with the imperial cult in the Greek East and in the Latin West A wide selection of evidence literary documentary numismatic iconographic archeological unveils the symbolic universe of the

Julio Claudian rulers This construction of social and cosmic reality stood at odds with the eschatological denouement of world history which in Paul's view culminated in the arrival of God's new creation upon Christ's return as Lord of all Paul exalted the Body of Christ over Nero's body of state transferring to the risen and ascended Jesus many of the ruler's titles and to the Body of Christ many of the ruler's functions Thus for Paul Christ's reign challenged the values of Roman society and transformed its hierarchical social relations through the Spirit
