 Stieglitz, and the Early Poetry of William Carlos Williams Bram Dijkstra, 2020-07-21 Previous studies of William Carlos Williams have tended to look only for the literary echoes in his verse According to Bram Dijkstra the new movements in the

 in American Music Michael Broyles, 2008-10-01 From colonial times to the present American composers have lived on the fringes of society and defined themselves in large part as outsiders In this stimulating book Michael Broyles considers the tradition of maverick composers and explores what these mavericks reveal about American attitudes toward the arts and about American society itself Broyles starts by examining the careers of three notably unconventional composers William Billings in the eighteenth century Anthony Philip Heinrich in the nineteenth and Charles Ives in the twentieth All three had unusual lives wrote music that many considered incomprehensible and are now recognized as key figures in the development of American music Broyles goes on to investigate the proliferation of eccentric individualism in all types of American music classical popular and jazz and how it has come to dominate the image of diverse creative artists from John Cage to Frank Zappa The history of the maverick tradition Broyles shows has much to tell us about the role of music in American culture and the tension between individualism and community in the American consciousness Education and Politics in the 1990s Denis Lawton, 1992 Examines the ideological differences between the education policies of the two main political

 Weston, 2008-06-20 Harold Weston's Freedom in the Wilds brings an informal history of the rugged Adirondack wilderness together with Weston's own adventures there as an artist The vivid and spirited stories he gathered from guides lumbermen and visionaries continue to make the case for preserving the wild lands of the region First published in 1971 the book became a classic of Adirondack literature notable for its exploration of the dynamic relationship between wilderness and creativity and its ever more relevant appeal to protect an area within ourselves forever wild In this third edition Rebecca

Independent Intellectuals in the United States, 1910-1945 Steven Biel, 1995-02-01 A new intellectual community came together in the United States in the 1910s and 1920s a community outside the universities the professions and in general the established centers of intellectual life A generation of young intellectuals was increasingly challenging both the genteel tradition and the growing division of intellectual labor Adversarial and anti professional they exhibited a hostility to boundaries and specialization that compelled them toward an ambitious and self conscious generalism and made them a force in the American political literary and artistic landscape This book is a cultural history of this community of free lance critics and an exploration of their collective effort to construct a viable public intellectual life in America Steven Biel illustrates the diversity of the body of writings produced by these critics whose subjects ranged from literature and fine arts to politics economics history urban planning and national character Conceding that significant differences and conflicts did exist in the works of individual thinkers Biel nonetheless maintains that a broader picture of this vibrant culture has been obscured by attempts to classify intellectuals according to political or ideological persuasions His book brings to life the ways in which this community sought out alternative ways of making a living devised strategies for reaching and engaging the public debated the involvement of women in the intellectual community and incorporated Marxism into its evolving search for a decisive intellectual presence in American life Examined in this lively study are the role and contributions of such figures as Randolph Bourne Max Eastman Crystal Eastman Walter Lippmann Margaret Sanger Van Wyck Brooks Floyd Dell Edmund Wilson Mable Dodge Paul Rosenfeld H L Mencken Lewis Mumford Malcolm Cowley Matthew Josephson John Reed Waldo Frank Gilbert Seldes and Harold Stearns The Long Voyage Malcolm Cowley, 2014-01-06 Critic poet editor chronicler of the Lost Generation elder statesman of the Republic of Letters Malcolm Cowley 1898 1989 was an eloquent witness to American literary and political life His letters mostly unpublished provide a self portrait of Cowley and his time and make possible a full appreciation of his long varied career The Hudson Review Frederick Morgan, Paula Deitz, 1949

Aaron Copland Marta Robertson, Robin Armstrong, 2003-08-27 Aaron Copland 1900 1990 is generally considered the most popular and well known composer of American art music and yet little scholarly attention has been paid to Copland since the 1950s This volume begins with a portrait of the composer and an evaluation of significant research trends which is intended to fill a void and to suggest directions for further research The guide also provides a section discussing Copland s interdisciplinary interests such as ballet and film work as well as a comprehensive bibliography of writings about Copland and his music Years of Transition Nicholas Joost, 1967 Telling Lies in Modern American Autobiography Timothy Dow Adams, 2017-10-10 All autobiographers are unreliable narrators Yet what a writer chooses to misrepresent is as telling perhaps even more so as what really happened Timothy Adams believes that autobiography is an attempt to reconcile one s life with one s self and he argues in this book that autobiography should not be taken as historically accurate but as metaphorically authentic Adams focuses on five modern American writers whose autobiographies are particularly complex because of apparent lies that permeate them In examining their stories Adams shows that lying in autobiography especially literary autobiography is not simply inevitable Rather it is often a deliberate highly strategic decision on the author s part Throughout his analysis Adams s standard is not literal accuracy but personal authenticity He attempts to resolve some of the paradoxes of recent autobiographical theory by looking at the classic question of design and truth in autobiography from the underside with a focus on lying rather than truth Originally published in 1990 A UNC Press Enduring Edition UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value
