

An aerial photograph showing a suburban neighborhood with several houses and a large, dense wetland area. The wetland is a dark green, forested area that appears to be a remnant of a larger natural area. The houses are mostly single-story with grey roofs. A road runs along the top and right sides of the image. A small pond or lake is visible in the bottom left corner.

Against the Grain Catherine Ford,2006-10-03 A contrarian view of Alberta and Albertans from the outspoken and often controversial former Calgary Herald columnist In 2005 Alberta celebrates its centenary a hundred year stretch that has seen the province catapulted from being little more than thinly populated grassland and mountain to one of Canada's richest provinces one with a fair claim to being perpetually misunderstood Albertans of course are passionate about their province even when to outsiders the sentiment is baffling For instance can a liberal feminist like renowned columnist Catherine Ford find happiness in a right wing neo conservative province The short form of Ford's answer is Yes I can But The long version is the intimate revealing entertaining and opinionated picture of the province she paints in Against the Grain On the surface the province is monolithic in its politics anti gay anti feminist anti choice in its opinions and macho in its demeanour But Ford shows that this is a lopsided outsider's view of Alberta and to prove it she takes readers on a tour from Calgary to Banff and Jasper Fort McMurray Edmonton and beyond pointing out the good the bad and the plain bewildering Tough minded but loving Against the Grain gives outsiders the real goods on Alberta in this its centenary year Haunted Selves, Haunting Places in English Literature and Culture

Sequel to Suburbia Nicholas A. Phelps, 2015-11-20 How the decentralized automobile oriented and fuel consuming model of American suburban development might change In the years after World War II a distinctly American model for suburban development emerged The expansive rings of outer suburbs that formed around major cities were decentralized and automobile oriented an embodiment of America s postwar mass production mass consumption economy But alternate models for suburbia including transit oriented development smart growth and New Urbanism have inspired critiques of suburbanization and experiments in post suburban ways of living In Sequel to Suburbia Nicholas Phelps considers the possible post suburban future offering historical and theoretical context as well as case studies of transforming communities Phelps first locates these outer suburban rings within wider metropolitan spaces describes the suburbs as a spatial fix for the postwar capitalist economy and examines the political and governmental obstacles to reworking suburban space He then presents three glimpses of post suburban America looking at Kendall Dadeland in Miami Dade County Florida Tysons Corner in Fairfax County Virginia and Schaumburg Illinois near Chicago He shows Kendall Dadeland to be an isolated New Urbanism success describes the re planning of Tysons Corner to include a retrofitted central downtown area and examines Schaumburg s position as a regional capital for Chicago s northwest suburbs As these cases show the reworking of suburban space and the accompanying political process will not be left to a small group of architects planners and politicians

Post suburban politics will have to command the approval of the residents of suburbia Black Writing, Culture, and the State in Latin America Jerome C. Branche, 2021-04-30 Imagine the tension that existed between the emerging nations and governments throughout the Latin American world and the cultural life of former enslaved Africans and their descendants A world of cultural production in the form of literature poetry art music and eventually film would often simultaneously contravene or cooperate with the newly established order of Latin American nations negotiating independence and a new political and cultural balance In Black Writing Culture and the State in Latin America Jerome Branche presents the reader with the complex landscape of art and literature among Afro Hispanic and Latin artists Branche and his contributors describe individuals such as Juan Francisco Manzano who wrote an autobiography on the slave experience in Cuba during the nineteenth century The reader finds a thriving Afro Hispanic theatrical presence throughout Latin America and even across the Atlantic The role of black women in poetry and literature comes to the forefront in the Caribbean presenting a powerful reminder of the diversity that defines the region All too often the disciplines of film studies literary criticism and art history ignore the opportunity to collaborate in a dialogue Branche and his contributors present a unified approach however suggesting that cultural production should not be viewed narrowly especially when studying the achievements of the Afro Latin world
