with Accompanying Papers United States. Bureau of Education,1883 Change in Societal Institutions J. Glass, Maureen T. Hallinan, D. Klein, 2013-11-11 In the second half of the twentieth century a number of researchers have conceptualized modern society as a social system composed of differentiated yet interrelated institutional spheres Commonly identified institutional spheres are the family religion the economy the polity or state medicine or health care religion law and education The institutional perspective has sometimes been linked to a structural functional framework it has often been asserted that institutions must be understood as parts of a larger whole operating at the societal level Equally important have been recent institutional theory and research focusing on the more microscopic dynamics of intrainstitutional change The concern here has been processes governing the institutionalization of rules and practices and the formation and decline of particular social structures Although valid and useful neither of these perspectives has yielded a systematic comparative assessment of societal institutions The aim of this edited volume is to meet this critical need It brings together recent theoretical and empirical research on societal institutions in a time of rapid change The chapters focus on how these institutions adapt to societal change and what the outcomes of these changes are Return Of Guatemala's Refugees Clark

Taylor, 2010-06-21 On February 13 1982 the Guatemalan army stormed into the remote northern Guatemalan village of Santa Maria Tzeja The villagers had already fled in terror but over the next six days seventeen of them mostly women and children were caught and massacred animals were slaughtered and the entire village was burned to the ground Twelve years later utilizing terms of refugee agreements reached in 1982 villagers from Santa Maria who had fled to Mexico returned to their homes and lands to re create their community with those who had stayed in Guatemala Return of Guatemala's Refugees tells the story of that process In this moving and provocative book Clark Taylor describes the experiences of the survivors both those who stayed behind in conditions of savage repression and those who fled to Mexico where they learned to organize and defend their rights Their struggle to rebuild is set in the wider drama of efforts by grassroots groups to pressure the government economic elites and army to fulfill peace accords signed in December of 1996 Focusing on the village of Santa Maria Tzeja Taylor defines the challenges that faced returning refugees and their community How did the opposing subcultures of fear generated among those who stayed in Guatemala and of education and human rights experienced by those who took refuge in Mexico coexist Would the flood of international money sent to settle the refugees and fulfill the peace accords serve to promote participatory development or new forms of social control How did survivors expand the space for democracy firmly grounded in human rights How did they get beyond the grief and trauma that remained from the terror of the early eighties Finally the ultimate challenge how did they work within conditions of extreme poverty to create a grassroots democracy in a militarized society
