

General Revelation

- It is possible for anyone to know God through general revelation.
- This can happen in a number of ways:
 - Reflecting on nature, and drawing conclusions [e.g. the order and beauty must have been designed by a God]
 - Use of our conscience [develops from an early age, and although subject to influences, all humans have a sense of this = must be 'in-built']
 - Reflecting on scriptures [the culmination of human reflection on God and what He wants – often believed to be the word of God written down, although most Christians would accept some human interpretation]
 - Reflecting on the lives of important figures (e.g. Jesus, Mother Teresa, etc) [people who have acted according to what they believe God wanted, and inspire others to do the same]

Revelation Theology A History:

Revelation Theology Avery Dulles, 1969 Revelation as History Rolf Rendtorff, Trutz Rendtorff, Ulrich Wilkens, 1968
David Granskou's translation into English of Revelation as History makes available to the English speaking world for the first time one of the controversial works of modern theology. In it a group of young German theologians led by Wolfhart Pannenberg of Mainz University propose a reinterpretation of the concept of revelation that is directed against both the Barthian and the Bultmannian understanding of the word of God as the basis of theology. Bultmann who is skeptical of the historic character of Christian revelation holds that the divine will is known only through God's word as contained in Scripture. Barth strongly emphasizes the uniqueness of God's revelation in Christ. Pannenberg and his group hold as limited these authoritarian ideas of the divine word and of the obedience it calls for and argue instead that all of history is an indirect revelation of God's existence. The idea of the divine word and of the obedience it calls for and argue instead that all of history is an indirect revelation of God's existence. The idea of the divine word is not excluded in their reinterpretation but it is reinstituted to a more modest and subordinate role within the context of revelation as history. Pannenberg first reviews the modern history of the concept of revelation, introduces the theme of the book and constructs the framework of the presentation. The subsequent exegetical investigations by Rolf Rendtorff and Ulrich Wilkens argue the evidence for the case in the Israelite and primitive Christian testimonies of faith expressed in the Old and New Testaments. Pannenberg then fully states the new interpretation of revelation as history and Trutz Rendtorff concludes with an exploration of the problems created by this point of view when applied to the church. Revelation as History represents a significant attempt to resolve the conflicting positions of the existential and historical schools of thought on the theological issue of revelation, one that rejects the authoritarian style of theological thought in favor of an open rationality combined with a concern for the substance of the Christian tradition.

Publisher The Revelation of God in History John F. Haught, 2009-03-01 God and History in the Book of Revelation Michael Gilbertson, 2003-07-24
This is an interdisciplinary study which constructs a dialogue between biblical interpretation and systematic theology. It examines how far a reading of the Book of Revelation might either support or question the work of leading theologians Wolfhart Pannenberg and Jürgen Moltmann on the theology of history, exploring the way in which the author of Revelation uses the dimensions of space and time to make theological points about the relationship between God and history. The book argues that Revelation sets the present earthly experience of the reader in the context of God's ultimate purposes by disclosing hidden dimensions of reality both spatial embracing heaven and earth and temporal extending into the ultimate future. Dr Gilbertson offers a detailed assessment of the theologies of history developed by Pannenberg and Moltmann, including their views on the nature of the historical process and the use of apocalyptic ideas in eschatology.

Theology as History and Hermeneutics Laurence W. Wood, 2005
This book offers in style and content an exciting new perspective on contemporary theology and its future in post modern times. I welcome this new perspective. The style is agreeable unpolemical and engages in dialogue with the best of Barth and Bultmann Ricoeur and Pannenberg Cobb and Moltmann showing what they have to offer to the larger theological community and transferring it like a ferry boat into the post modern age The purpose is to offer an evangelical theology which is at the same time genuinely evangelical and relevant for post modern ways of thinking Wood writes with admirable clarity Jürgen Moltmann University of Tübingen Revelation Theology Avery Robert Dulles (card.), 1970 Christian Theology Alister E. McGrath, 2011-01-14 Alister McGrath's Christian Theology An Introduction is one of the most internationally acclaimed and popular Christian theology textbooks in use today This 5th edition has been completely revised and now features new and extended material numerous additional illustrations and companion resources ensuring it retains its reputation as the ideal introduction to Christian theology Fully updated 5th edition of the bestselling textbook incorporating expanded material numerous student features and new illustrations Features new sections on Copernicanism and Darwinism Includes extended discussions of Augustine's doctrine of creation Trinitarian theologies of religion and the relation of Christianity to other faiths May be used as a stand alone volume or alongside the Christian Theology Reader 4th edition for a complete overview of the subject Retains the chapter structure of the 4th edition ensuring comparability with earlier editions and courses based on these Accompanied by a revised instructor's website featuring expanded resources including study questions and answers visit www.wiley.com/go/mcgrath for more details and to register for access Theology, History, and Biblical Interpretation Darren Sarisky, 2015-01-29 The Christian Bible serves as the sacred scripture of the Christian community It is read regularly by many people around the world today as it has been for centuries But how should one interpret this text This reader presents a variety of perspective on how to relate historical and theological considerations when approaching the Bible It encourages students and scholars to ponder how historical and theological categories shape one's view of three crucial realities the text of the Bible the human subject who reads the text and the nature of the exchange between the two in the practice of reading As historical and theological categories are applied to these realities are they mutually exclusive or can they be combined in some way This reader encourages students and scholars to explore these important questions by bringing together a selection of some of modernity's most influential discussions of the issues as well as some of the present day's most distinguished attempts to weigh in on the debate A History of the Theology of the Disciples of Christ Hiram Van Kirk, 1907 The "Sense of the Faith" in History John J. Burkhard, OFM Conv., 2022-01-15 While taught by Vatican II the sense of the faith sensus fidei has had little official impact in the Catholic Church What would the church look like if it took this conciliar teaching to heart To address this neglect John Burkhard locates the historical roots of the teaching and its emergence at Vatican II It attempts to better understand the sense of the faith in the light of other fundamental teachings of the council and challenges the hierarchical church to invite all the faithful to rightfully participate in the prophetic ministry of the whole church closely allied with Pope Francis's call for a more synodal church Bonhoeffer as Biblical

Interpreter Jameson E. Ross, 2021-08-12 By oscillating between Dietrich Bonhoeffer's explicit hermeneutical reflections and his actual practice of interpreting biblical texts Jameson E. Ross shows that Bonhoeffer's interpretive acts consist of a theologically self-reflective hermeneutic in which Scripture is for interpretation underscoring how essential the interpreter's Spirit-given freedom, actions, theology, context, and needs are for reading Scripture. Offering a fresh vision for methodological discussions in theology, this book is a valuable resource for graduate and postgraduate students and researchers on modern theology, political theology, and ethics and biblical exegesis. History of Christian Theology in the Apostolic Age Eduard Reuss, 1872 Absolute in History, The Kasper, Walter, 2018 Walter Kasper explains that the interest of theology has been broken off by idealistic thinking and advocates a new discussion between theology and idealism of the fundamental importance of the theology of the twentieth century. Revelation of God in History John F. Haught, 1988-10-01

Global Dictionary of Theology William A. Dyrness, Veli-Matti Kärkkäinen, 2009-10-25 Theological dictionaries are foundational to any theological library. But until now there has been no Global Dictionary of Theology, a theological dictionary that presumes the contribution of the Western tradition but moves beyond it to embrace and explore a full range of global expressions of theology. The Global Dictionary of Theology is inspired by the shift of the center of Christianity from the West to the Global South. But it also reflects the increase in two-way traffic between these two sectors as well as the global awareness that has permeated popular culture to an unprecedented degree. The editorial perspective of the Global Dictionary of Theology is an ecumenical evangelicalism that is receptive to discovering new facets of truth through listening and conversation on a global scale. Thus a distinctive feature of the Global Dictionary of Theology is its conversational approach. Contributors have been called on to write in the spirit of engaging in a larger theological conversation in which alternative views are expected and invited. William A. Dyrness, Veli-Matti Kärkkäinen, Juan F. Martínez, and Simon Chan edit approximately 250 articles written by over 100 contributors representing the global spectrum of theological perspectives. Pastors, theological teachers, theological students, and lay Christian leaders will all find the Global Dictionary of Theology to be a resource that unfolds new dimensions and reveals new panoramas of theological perspective and inquiry. Here is a new launching point for doing theology in today's global context. Dynamics of World History Christopher Dawson, 2014-05-20 In scope and in vision Christopher Dawson's historiography ranks with the work of men like Spengler, Northrop, and Toynbee. Several major themes run through Dawson's work, but perhaps his most unique contribution was his insistence on the importance of religion in shaping and sustaining civilizations. Religion, Dawson believed, is the great creative force in any culture, and the loss of a society's historic religion therefore portends a process of social dissolution. For this reason, Dawson concluded that Western society must find a way to revitalize its spiritual life if it is to avoid irreversible decay. Progress, the real religion of modernity, is insufficient to sustain cultural health. And an ahistorical, secularized Christianity is an oxymoron; a pseudo-religion only nominally related to the historic religion of the West. Dawson maintained that the hope of the present age lay in the reconciliation of the religious tradition of Christianity with the intellectual tradition of humanism and the new knowledge about man and nature provided by modern science Dynamics of World History shows that though such a task may be difficult it is not impossible A Bible Handbook to Revelation Mal Couch, Foreword by John F Walvoord Leading evangelical educators discuss the text of Revelation and the issues that most interest twenty first century readers and students Includes a verse by verse explanation and background analysis The History of Revelation Floyd I. Buffenbarger,2012-01-12 An in depth study of the history and culture setting behind the book of Revelation and the cruel leaders leading up to the apostle John s banishment to the isle of Patmos Patmos during John s time was the place where prisoners were sent live out their last days Yet today Patmos is a beautiful Greek island resort in the Aegean Sea just off the coast of Turkey It is here on the island that John will receive the vision to write while on the Lord s day John will be told to write those things that Daniel was commanded to close up and seal until the time of the end Karl Barth and the Study of the Religious Enlightenment Michael Jimenez,2018-03-01 Encountering the Task of History analyzes the intellectual history of the eighteenth century provided by Karl Barth most notably in his Protestant Theology in the Nineteenth Century Barth anticipates the recent scholarship on the religious roots impact and significance of the Enlightenment foreshadowing the later and now current challenges to the secularization paradigm This volume seeks to establish a new vantage point through which to understand not only the wider shape of Barth s work itself but also his standing and contribution to public intellectual scholarship
